As authorities implement the new guidelines of the Sex Offender Registration Law by providing notification to local communities about the presence of known offenders in their vicinty, many questions and concerns naturally arise. Two weeks ago this paper printed the names, addresses, photos, and pertinent information about two men who are Level 3 sex offenders. This is the level which is considered the highest risk of re-offense. Therefore, residents have legitimate reasons to be concerned. However, there is no need to panic.

Statistics have shown that child sex molestors do not tend to bother children in the neighborhood in which they live. Usually the released sex offender is on probation for a period of time. Often as a condition of probation the offender is prohibited from being in the immediate vicinity of schools or in any way associating with youngsters. For example, in the case of a child molester who had served several years in prison and was released back to his community (Arlington) last year, the neighbors had advance information of his impending return. They banded together to find out what they could do to be sure that their children were safe. They had particular concerns about the time when children would be going to and from school, especially because there was a large park nearby. The principal of the school in this area explained that the parents contacted the Town's Safety Officer who then conducted an evening meeting for them about what could be done.

The Safety Officer was able to help make sure that the parents, the local elementary school principal and school staff were able to

MBTA plan surfaces again

By SEAN DEVLIN

Wilmington's Board of Selectmen convened at the Town Hall Tuesday evening to discuss, among other topics, the status of the Route 62 bridge project and the design and construction of the proposed MBTA commuter rail facility.

The bridge project is slated to begin as soon as the major utility companies, such as Nynex, remove the existing poles from the area. Removal and relocation of the utility lines is anticipated to span six to nine months.

Once utility lines are cleared, S.P.S, New England, the selected contractor, will proceed with the widening of Routes 62 and 38.

The actual demolition of the present bridge and construction of the new bridge will be separated into two phases. First, a portion of the present bridge's abutment will be removed, allowing traffic to travel over Route 62 while construction of the new bridge is in progress. Once the construction is completed, the remaining abutment will be destroyed.

According to representatives of S.P.S., New England, traffic shutdowns are not anticipated during the phases of construction.

Representative Jim Miceli affirmed, "Traffic will continue to flow on a normal basis."

Amid doubts and concerns that the bridge project may not begin as soon as originally expected, Miceli asserted that the contractors are highly regarded and are excellent to work with.

"There are too many folks that think this is not going to happen. It's basically an accomplished fact. We'd like to see them out there as soon as possible," said Miceli.

Other concerns, such as on-street parking and relocating taxi stands for the adjacent commuter rail depot, will be addressed at the preconstruction conference on June 10.

The second major topic of the evening regarded the proposed design of a new Wilmington

WHS teacher development ok'd

By BOB CARROLL

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington School Committee recently approved two half-days of professional development for Wilmington High School teachers to be held during school days May 28 and June 4.

Wilmington teachers are expected to participate in a seminar that teaches them how to implement "student-centered learning," a methodology that features having students discover concepts by working in small groups rather than learn concepts just by taking notes in lectures.

Each high school student is to miss one class during the two half-days teachers are participating in the professional development programs.

Professional development is mandated by the state: teachers are required to collect professional development points (PDPs) by doing such things as participating in workshops on teaching methods, on their subject matter or on education-related topics such as computer technology in the classroom. Each teacher must accumulate 150 PDPs over a ten year period to be eligible for recertification.

Committee members expressed concern that students were missing out on some of their education because of the number of days substitute teachers were being used to cover for teachers who were participating in professional development.

Committee members Susan Clarkin and Suzanne Rooney voted in the minority against holding the training sessions on May 28 and June 4. Clarkin had asked why the training could not be held during final exams when teachers only teach part of the day, thus avoiding having students miss classes.

Superintendent Geraldine O'Donnell explained that teachers have final exams to correct, plus they have to have final grades ready by the end of the day after the last exam, which is held on the last day of school.

(Teachers must submit final exam grades, end-of-quarter grades and end-of-year grades the afternoon of the last final exam. These grades must all be submitted on computer disk, so each teacher has to find a computer to record the grades.)

Clarkin asked if a "compromise" could be reached whereby the teachers participated in professional development for just one day during final exams.

RMLD summer rates coming

READING - The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) has reminded customers in Wilmington, Reading, North Reading and Lynnfield that summer rates will go into effect June 1, 1997 and will remain in effect until September 30,1997. The RMLD has a seasonal rate structure because the peak demand season occurs during the summer months due to the increased electrical usage from air conditioners, swimming pool filters, window fans and other appliances used during the warm weather.

The average residential customer, defined by the RMLD as one who uses 500 kilowatt hours of electricity per month, should experience an increase of $5.93 per month when the summer rates go into effect. Commercial customers who use an average of 7,300 kilowatt hours per month and have a 25 KW demand should see an increase of approximately $264.21. The increase reflected on the customer's bill from June to September is not the result of a rate increase, it is because the RMLD has a seasonal rate structure.

For further information about the RMLD, or the RMLD rate structure, call 944-1340 and ask for the Energy Services Department.

A clarification

In last weeks Town Crier, the article about the Rt. 62 bridge construction failed to mention that Don Hill, proprietor of Designs By Don, a Wilmington flower shop has his personal residence adjacent to the bridge construction area. Mr Hill has signed a statement of agreement with the Commonwealth and is satisfied with all parties involved in the bridge construction.

Roundtable seeks new uses for Community Center

By SEAN DEVLIN

On Thursday evening, one of Wilmington's prominent public service organizations, the Community Roundtable, met to discuss the future and function of the Community Resource Center building.

The Roundtable is a group comprised of local business owners and concerned citizens that develops programs for residents, hosts fundraisers, and works to enhance the community overall.

The Community Resource Center, which was donated by Winchester Hospital, promises to become a financial burden for the Roundtable. The building's annual utility and maintenance costs have been estimated at $14,000.

The Roundtable, with the assistance of Vice President of Development at Winchester Hospital Glenn Welch, who has professional fundraising experience, hope to find a local organization interested in using the center's space for meetings and functions. Welch suggested that the interested party could collect the $14,000 needed by holding a fundraiser.

"We'll put it right in their laps. We'll send out a letter...and appoint a task force, and let them decide the future of this building," said Welch.

Although there are at least two organizations seeking to use the building, if no formal recommendations are made, the Roundtable will have no other option than to sell the building, which has been appraised at $198,000. If sold, the money would be deposited into a trust fund.

If in fact, a local group decides to support the Community Resource Center and its expenses, certain issues, such as parking, will have to be addressed. Currently, visitors to the center are parking in the lot adjacent to the fire station.

Ideally, the Roundtable would like to establish what member Dr. James Ficocello described as a "clearinghouse of information," that would include a small business loan and resource center as well.

Initially, the group thought of requesting a $250,000 endowment to fund the referral service, but balked at the idea. Instead, it was proposed that the sale of the existing building could finance the information center.

"Let's make our own endowment, without fundraising headaches. Either we sink or swim on this one," Ficocello said.

However, the Roundtable is aware that by placing the building on the market, financially, the information center becomes more realistic. In contrast, selling the building requires another site to be located.

"That is the crux of the dilemma," said Ficocello.

WILMINGTON - "My supervisors rock" said Boston University College of Engineering student Robert Monteiro, son of Bob and Judy Monteiro of Jacquith Road, Wilmington when asked what he felt made his employment at George Sherman Union (GSU) both lengthy and successful. Robert was recently awarded the Student Employee of the Year citation by GSU, a place where BU friends meet, grab a bite to eat, play a game of pool, pick up a free copy of the Boston Phoenix, or mail a letter home. Robert has played a prominent role in the GSU staff for the past five years and credits his supervisors pictured above - AnneMarie Kougias (Robert) and Mary Ellen Osburn with being most helpful and pleasant to work for.

identify the sex offender. Parents were also able to tell their children to avoid his residence. Some precautions were also taken for children not to cut through the park area alone.

Perhaps one of the major outcomes of the involvement of the Safety Officer was the development of a Block Parent Program. Under this program children knew that if they felt in any way unsafe or threatened, they could ring the bell of any house that had the prominently displayed, green sign of a Block Parent participant. Children were also told that if they needed help and did not see a Block Parent house nearby that they should look for a house with a swing set or other children's toys, because they were likely to find a parent home.

There is perhaps a fine line between making children aware of possible dangers and making them overly concerned. It is important to talk to your child about basic safety at a level that he or she can understand. The same basic information your parents told you about not talking to strangers, not accepting gifts or food or rides from strangers still applies. If there is a specific person in your neighborhood whom you know to be someone that you do not want your child to be associated with, simply point that out. In fact, this applies not only to sex offenders, but might also apply to someone in your neighborhood who, in your judgment, is not a good role model for your child, or is someone who does not use good judgment with their own youngsters.

Parents must take the major responsibility to protect their children and help them learn how to protect themselves. Developmentally, an infant learns basic human trust as it bonds with its mother. There is that delightful trust that a child has both in his parents and theachers, especially at a young age. How often has a five-year-old child's main reason for something been , "Because my Mommy told me," or "My teacher said so!" If only we could allow this innocent childlike trust to continue. Unfortunately, the real world will not allow us to do that. We must gradually teach our children whom they may trust and whom they should avoid. Then we must teach them how to make those judgments themselves. It takes time. Even as adults we may make errors in our judgments about people and be suddenly shocked when our trust is betrayed. Therefore, parents and their children may need some extra help in dealing with specific, unusual situations such as the immediate presence of a sex offender in the neighborhood. If you are interested in developing a 'neighborhood watch' type of program such as the Block Parent Program, it would be appropriate to contact your town's Safety Office.

In addition, there is a program available to schools called the Child Assault Prevention Program. This is a sexual abuse prevention program whose main goal is to teach childdren and communities strategies to reduce vulnerability to threatening and assaultive situations. The program has four major components. The first is an informational parent workshop which provides an overview of CAPP. Second is a teacher inservice. Third is a one hour classroom workshop for children. This includes guided discussions and role/plays of various situations. Fourth is an individualized discussion period for children. The CAP Program is something which parents could request through their local school system.

WHERE JOINT OWNERSHIP WORKS WELL

Estate planning for couples usually bars joint ownership, which can cause a survivor to pay taxes on half of what he or she owned in the first place. But joint ownership can be very effective in other situations.

As parents age, for instance, they may choose to make a child a joint owner of securities or other assets that he or she will eventually inherit. This smooths the transfer of assets. The estate of the first to die - presumably the parent - will include a share of the property based on the original purchase price furnished by the descendent. Result: that part of the portfolio remains in the parent's estate and the child inherits it at a stepped-up value at the parent's death.

The joint ownership child can tap the assets only to pay expenses for the original owner. Any other withdrawal will be considered a gift on which gift taxes and capital gains tax may be due.

Estate planning is largely tax planning. Talk to us about it at

Exam time is not nap time

Editorial by Bob Carroll

WILMINGTON - The high school teachers who bother to give real final exams have an enormous exam load to read and grade. Then they have to ascertain the student's year (or at least semester) grades, plus submit grades for the quarter. And each teacher has to transfer any handwritten grades to a computer disk, because grades have to be submitted on disk.

And of course, all this has to be completed by the end of the last school day, which is also the last day of final exams.

An absurd rush? Yes. And perhaps and absurd tradition too.

However, School Committee members Suzanne Rooney and Susan Clarkin have taken this established academic absurdity to new heights by implying that during final exams, the high school teachers are sitting around sipping cool drinks and planning the next round of golf.

Rooney's and Clarkin's amazing remarks came as the school Committee members were wringing their hands at their May 21 meeting about having to use substitute teachers to cover for full time teachers taking professional development courses during the school day.

Teachers must accumulate 150 Professional Development Points (PDPs) during a ten year period in order to qualify for state recertification.

Locally, the administration has made it clear that Wilmington teachers are to attend a six-day course called "Understanding Teaching." The course is run by the a firm located in Carlisle named Research for Better Teaching.

Wilmington teachers are, by contract, to attend three of the course days during the summer. Local teachers may attend the other three days of the course during the school year, when, of course, substitute teachers must be used to cover for the teachers.

Although the measure passed, Rooney and Clarkin spoke against and voted against allowing the high school's teachers to do two half-days of professional development during normal class days, May 28 and June 4.

Rooney asked why the high school's teachers could not take the professional development (actually, teacher training) course during final exams, June 9 through 12, when classes get out around noon.

Later, Clarkin wanted at least one of the half-days to be during finals.

Rooney and Clarkin sent an outrageous message to the public, to the students and to the teachers.

First, these two made it clear that although they have presumed to accept seats on the school committee, they know absolutely nothing about what a high school teacher does at the end of the year during finals.

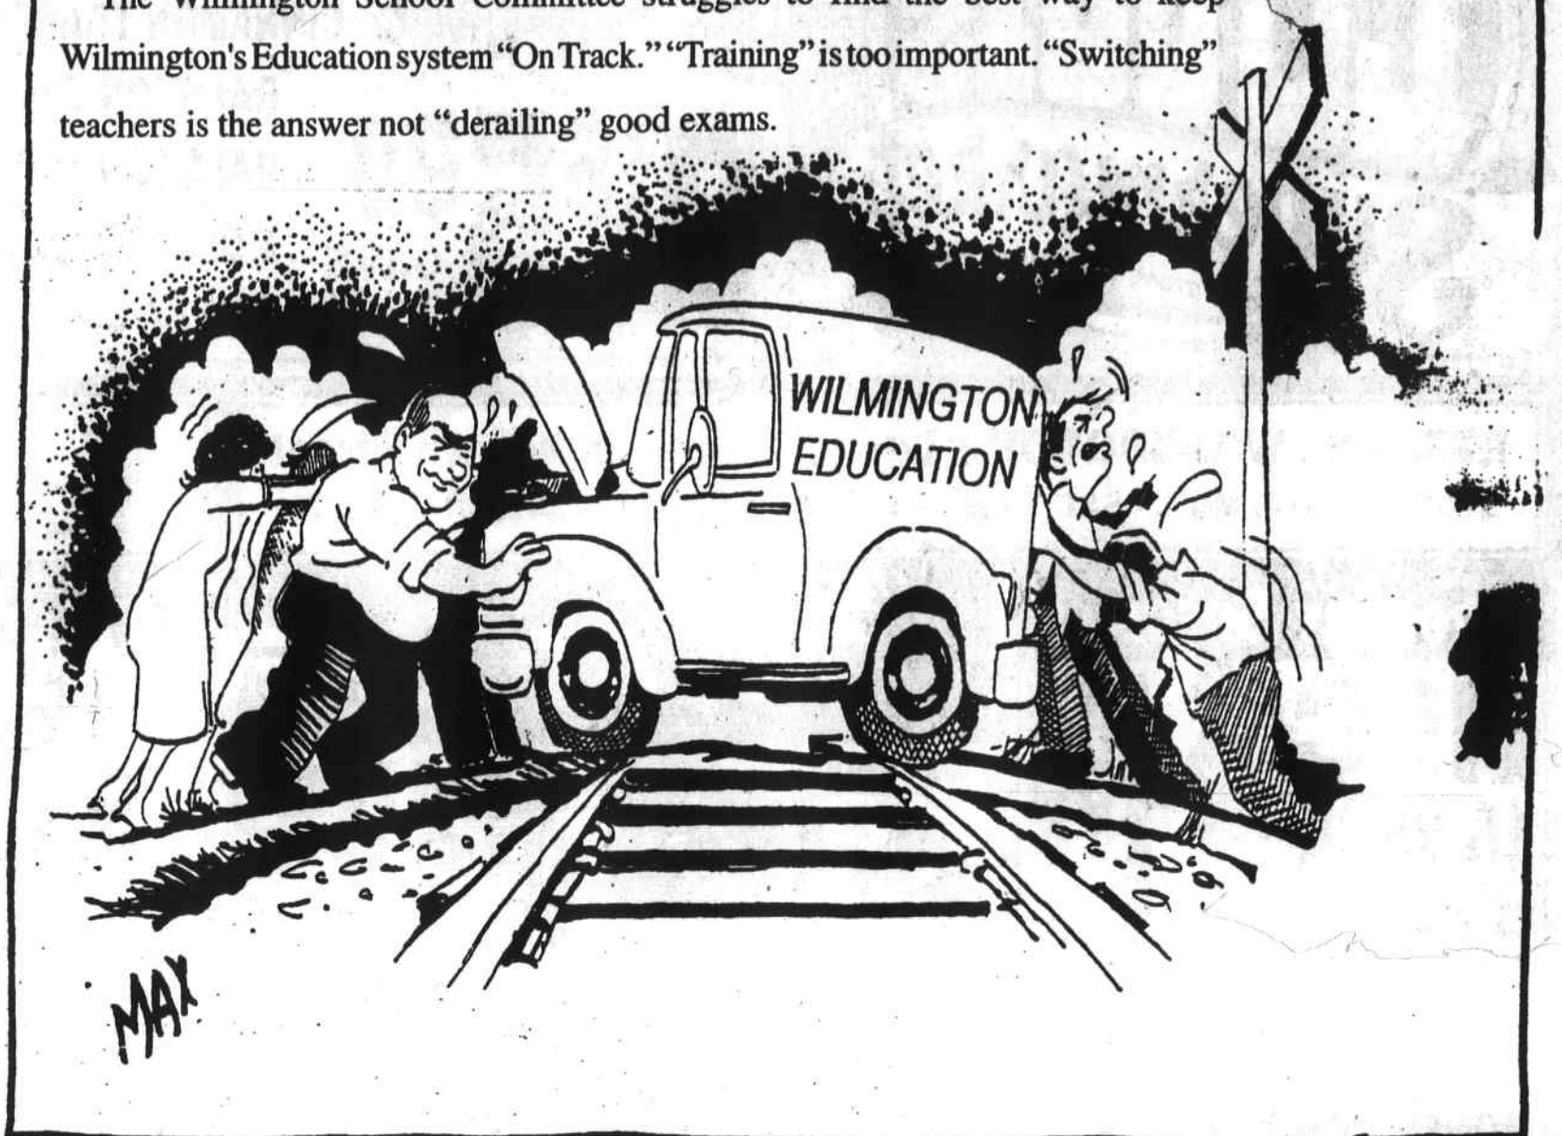

Rooney and Clarkin also seem totally oblivious of the simple fact that if their plan were implemented, many teachers would have little choice but to turn the final exams into a joke -- into some kind of informal quiz. Now wouldn't that be a great way to encourage academic excellence?

Perhaps Rooney and Clarkin should do a little "professional development" of their own, starting with taking the trouble to find out what the professional teachers in the Wilmington Public schools actually do for a living on a daily basis.

The School Committee is to be commended as a body for voting down Roony's and Clarkin's proposals, and for keeping teacher training sessions quite distinct from students' final exams.

Town Crier news note:

The Wilmington School Committee struggles to find the best way to keep Wilmington's Education system "On Track." "Training" is too important. "Switching" teachers is the answer not "derailing" good exams.

Letters to the editor

Exposing the traitors

Dear Larz:

As a loyal subject of his Majesty King George III, I want General Gage to know that not all of the townsfolk of Wilmington are pleased with the actions of a few of the rebellious rabble who have made themselves known through this newspaper. The idea of putting up a liberty pole and capping it on Sunday next is an act of blasphemy.

To denounce the King and the Parliament is heresy. Those of us who are opposed to this horrible act will be at the tree lighting on Saturday evening next to point out to the King's Regulars who these treasonous rabble are.

We will be at the pole capping on Sunday also, to again let His Majesty's Regulars know who the traitors are. I implore all of the Wilmington townspeople who are loyal servants of His Majesty King George III to join me at Rotary Park and rally to the cause of England and her leaders this Sunday afternoon next.

A Loyal Subject of the King

Dear Larz:

I would like to thank all the firefighters and medical personnel for their speedy action during my recent emergency and for the loving care shown my wife.

The attention was given with dignity and respect. We both thank you.

Girl Scouts come through

Dear Larz:

I wish to thank all the Girl Scout volunteers who worked so hard to make "Town Wide Try It Day" such a great success for all the girls who participated.

As a first year Daisy leader I was very impressed with the creativity and the amount of work it must have taken. I understand this was done under the leadership of Gayle Bolduc, and I just wanted to thank her and all the people who made it possible for my daughter and my Troop, #1063 to have such a great day of fun and learning.

Sincerely,
Joan Tuccinardi,
Tewksbury

Tewksbury in 1885...

Dear Larz;

Tewksbury is situated in the northeast part of Middlesex County, 21 miles from Boston. Dracut separated by the Merrimack River, bounds it on the north; Andover on the northeast; Wilmington on the southeast; Billerica on the southeast; Lowell lies on the west and northern end.

The assessed area 13,400 acres, of which 4,549 are wood land, (like Wilmington, it has a lot of very moist land.)

The Salem and Lowell branch of the Boston & Maine Railroad runs through the middle of the town, having a junction with the Lawrence line near the middle of the eastern side. Tewksbury (center) and Wamesit are the post offices. The other villages being Atherton, Burt's Mace's, Phoenix, North Tewksbury, South Tewksbury, West Tewksbury and Tewksbury Junction.

The products of the 151 farms in 1885 were valued at $197,738. The Ayherton Machine Company employed 20 men. There were two or three saw and grist mills and three carriage factories. The population was 1,333; legal voters 363; the dwelling houses numbered 370 with a tax rate of $9 on $1,000.

Information taken from A. Gazetteer of the State of Massachusetts by The Rev. Elias Neason, M.A., 1885.

Reginald Bishop
Wilmington

Dear Reggie:

Thank you for your report on Tewksbury of 100 years ago. It tells of the Salem & Lowell Railroad, which was constructed sometime before the Civil War because the businessmen of Salem were upset that all the cotton trade for Lowell went over the Boston &Lowell Railroad, later the Boston & Maine.

They caused the construction of the Salem & Lowell Railroad. It ran for about 65 years. This writer saw the last train going through North Wilmington about 1924. The railroad station on Andover Street was named "Brown's Crossing."

Today that same site is so named. It is a principal business site for the Wilmington Water Department.

Thank you for your thoughts. One of the Swain sisters, Henrietta, attended Normal School in Salem, so the railroad was not entirely wasted.

So-in-law omitted from letter

Dear Larz:

Last week you printed a letter that I mailed mailed you recently. I just realized that I inadvertantly omitted the name of our only son-in-law, Michael.

In the sentence where I'm standing in front of the H.S. It should read "with my daughter Terrijoan, her husband Mike and her friends. etc."

I feel badly about this which is why I'm sending you this note to explain.

Sincerely,
Joan Marden

Retirement Party thank you

I want to thank everyone who made my retirement party so successful and enjoyable for me.

I particularly would like to acknowledge the following people: Jeanne Boland, Committee Director, Master of Ceremonies Kate Conway and contributing members Barbara Beaucher, Phyllis Bilowz, Chris Bucuvalas, Jean Burke, Joan Feeney, Cheryl Hackett, Marilyn Jervis, Donna Caruso, Patrice Lund, Tom Mirisola, Esther Marshall, Beth Matthews, Judy Ann Murray, Sandy Proia, Deb Stolar, Toby Simon, Mary Timmins, David Youkilis, Jan Silva, Chris Neville, Rachel Simon, Joan Grady, Deb Cullen, Marilyn Allard, The McDougall Family, The Nikodemos Family, Matthew Hackett, Maryann and Deb Steen.

Wilmington library notes

WILMINGTON - Plans for summer reading club are underway. The Children's Room is humming with preparations for the Summer Reading Club. In keeping with this year's theme of "Celebration," Children's Librarian Sharon Ruetenik has come up with some exciting programs including a "Teddy Bear Picnic" and "An American Girl Tea Party." Assistant Children's Librarian, Susan MacDonald is putting her creative energy into designing folders that will be used by children to track their reading and visits to the library during the summer months.

Senior Page Elizabeth Berlik is creating prototypes for interesting craft projects. Circulation Clerk Karen Whitfield, library pages and volunteers are involved in the mass production of items needed for the anticipated high number of signups. Eight hundred and thirty-eight children participated in last year's summer reading program.

This year, registration for the Summer Reading Club will begin Thursday, June 19 at 6 p.m. on the town common. Library staff, Friends of the Library, and other community helpers will gather on the common to treat Wilmington residents to a "Library Summer Celebration." Mark June 19 on the calendar for this gala event.

Farewell awesome kids

The pre-school story time group Awesome Kids (3 1/2 to 5 year-olds) met for its final session during the week of May 19. Since March 5, the Children's Room has been the scene for three weekly story hour programs featuring such themes as the circus, art and birthdays. Each week over 60 children enjoyed one of the three offered sessions. Although listening to stories was the primary activity, participants also learned finger plays, sang songs, reviewed the alphabet, and chose a book from an age appropriate display.

Often individual children shared family news, vacation plans, or dreams with the group. Children's Librarian, Sharon Ruetenik says, "I have enjoyed getting to know these children by sharing the joy of books and reading with them during the past weeks." Congratulations to parents and/or care givers who took the time to take these young readers to the library each week! The Children's department plans to resume this program in the fall.

This summer on Thursday evenings, Children's Librarian Sharon Ruetenik will present a new read aloud program called "Family Story Time." The program is intended for children and their parents. Mrs. Ruetenik points out that this half hour evening program beginning at seven o'clock will center around a specific theme each week and is most suitable for children four to eight years old. We hope this program will offer families greater flexibility to participate in library activities together.

Memorial gifts

The library has expressed thanks for the following recently received donations to the Memorial Gift Book Fund:

From Marjorie M. Emery of Wayne, Maine, $50, in memory of Miriam F. Sullivan.

From Wilmington United Methodist Women, $50 given in lieu of a speaker's fee as requested by Charlotte Thompson who presented a book talk for this organization.

Donations can be made to the Wilmington Memorial Library for the purpose of honoring or memorializing friends and family members. An information handout which explains how one can make a gift of this kind to the library is available at the circulation desk.

Japanese folk tales presented

TEWKSBURY - After a year of multicultural units covering a variety of countries and subjects, the children in the first grade class of Miss Betty Themeles at the Louise Davy Trahan school will conclude their studies with a presentation of two Japanese Folk Tales.

In the past year this first grade class has followed Columbus to the New World, studied Native American life after the arrival of the early Pilgrims and learned about the journey of the latter-day Pilgrims through Ellis Island. Other cultural studies have included the countries of Russia, China and Ireland.

Japanese studies began in April. In conjunction with this unit the children have hard many Japanese Folk Tales, made traditional Kokeshi dolls, fans, and origami paper cranes.

On Friday, June 7, the children will perform two Folk Tales, one of which, "The Ogre's Staircase," will be performed using the Banruku puppets which were made by the children. They will also perform the "Little Bonzai Tree." Along with these two tales there will be a presentation by a group of students using "NOH" Masks. These are made to represent emotions and were also created by the students.

Hopefully, through these studies the children have gained a greater appreciation and knowledge of the world and its people

Wilmington Senior Topics

Gratitude extended

Gratitude is extended to Frank and Martha Ratto, Ruth and Joseph Filipowicz, Evelyn and Walter Kaminski, Marilyn and Joseph McCarthy, Elaine and Joseph Paglia, Mary Lipski, Margaret Keady, and Tom Cunningham along with the director and many members of the Kiwanis Club for volunteering as chauffeurs and dinner companions. Over 60 senior shutins enjoyed a very pleasant evening of dinner and entertainment as the guests of the Kiwanians. Many of the shutins are confined most of the time.

It was a labor of love for these volunteers along in years themselves, forgetting their own medical problems to make others happy. Thanks to all.

Attorney James Banda

Thanks also to Attorney James Banda for taking time out of his busy schedule to be the commissioner's guest at last week's meeting. He explained the Kennedy-Kassebaum Health Care Bill. A bill signed into law by President Clinton last August that will have a tremendous impact on the elderly.

Atty. Banda said, the original was not bad enough, then Congress added a provision to it, making it a criminal act to transfer assets in order to qualify for Medicaid for the purpose to enter a nursing home for long term care. If found guilty the attorney said, the sentence would be one year in prison and a fine of up to $10,000. Attorney Banda did explain that a person has to knowingly and willfully dispose of all of one's assets solely to become eligible for the State of Massachusetts to pay for nursing home care through the State Welfare Medicaid Program. Many questions were asked from the 59 seniors in attendance.

Attorney Banda answered all of them. When asked the question, can the bill be repealed? He seemed a little disappointed when he answered, it is unlikely the entire bill will be repealed. Sen. Kennedy is trying to get the criminal act part repealed. He also told the seniors that the bill ties the hands of attorneys. If they are found to have assisted a person in disposing of their assets, they will also receive the same punishment as the person they helped. Many other questions were asked on living trusts, gifts to help their children and long term care insurance coverage.

Meal program

In discussing the senior meal program with other directors, there are only a handful of Senior Centers in Mass. out of over 300 that prepare and serve their meals at a lunch site area. The majority receive their meals from a catering company at $1.50, $1.75 and $2.00 a meal. Seniors in Wilmington can receive a cup of coffee, fruit cup, salad, soup, sandwich, dessert and milk, or they can have a full course meal, with the salad, fruit cup and dessert, all for $1.00.

Why cook a nutritious meal at home, when you can get one all made up at the high school. All you have to do is call the Center and order the meal, so we can let the women in the kitchen know how many meals they will be serving.

Activities next week

PLAYING IT SAFE

Conduct a thorough check for any safety hazards when you are getting your house ready to put on the market. You may be accustomed to the worn tread on the stairs, toys in the hallway, or closets that deposit their contents at your feet when the door is opened, but strangers won't be as intuitive as you are. They will be vulnerable to those little "hazards" as they walk through your home, turning on the faucets, opening closet doors, and going up and down the stairs.

The stairs are a good place to begin your safety check - could someone tall accidentally bang their head on a beam, a pipe or the ceiling as they go up or down? Is the carpeting on the stairs securely fastened? An area rug should have a non-slip mat underneath.

Safety is important because someone who is injured in your home could sue you for damages. This doesn't happen often, but if it does, it can be extremely unpleasant. "Better Safe Than Sorry" applies to houses as well - especially when they are for sale.

D.A.R.E. program addresses needs

By FRANK AMATO

This week, Drug Abuse Resistance Education (D.A.R.E.) officer Chip Bruce showed a video about substance abuse. The video graphically displayed the various types of substances that are usually targeted to youths.

DARE conducts a 17 week program for 5th graders, and a 10 week program for the 7th grade..

The Dare 17 week program is outlined below:

Introducing
Dare

Preventing drug abuse among children and youth is a collaborative responsibility.

To introduce the DARE program to students.

Students will become acquainted with the DARE officer assigned to the school and will be able to define their roles and responsibilities as DARE students.

Understanding the Effects of Mind altering
Drugs

Drugs are substances that can change the way the mind and body work. Drugs that act on the brain and nervous system to change (alter) feelings and behavior are called mind-altering drugs.

To help students develop knowledge of basic drug facts and the harmful effects of mind-altering drugs if misused.

Students will understand basic facts about mind-altering drugs and the harmful effects that may result from the misuse of these drugs.

Considering Consequences

Considering the consequences that may result from the use of drugs can be helpful in deciding to be drug-free.

To help students understand there are many consequences that may result from the use of drugs.

Students will be able to identify consequences of using and choosing not to use tobacco, alcohol, and marijuana.

Changing Beliefs
about Drug Use

To make students aware of the actual extent of drug use among adolescents and of the kinds of peer pressure they may fact to take drugs.

Students will be able to identify the major sources and kinds of pressure and to compare their estimates of the extent of drug use among adolescents with estimates reported in national surveys.

To help students learn and practice effective ways to respond to different kinds of peer pressure to use drugs.

Students will be able to demonstrate effective ways to say no in responses to different kinds of pressure to use drugs.

Building
Self-Esteem

Developing positive attitudes about one's own abilities and achievements is important in building self-esteem.

To help students understand that self-esteem, the way a person feels about himself or herself, results from positive and negative feelings and experiences.

Students will recognize positive qualities about themselves.

Learning
Assertiveness-
a Responsive Style

Assertiveness (standing up for yourself) is a response style that enables a person to state his or her own rights without loss of self-esteem.

To teach assertiveness as a technique for refusing offers to use drugs or other situations where it would be helpful.

Students will be able to respond assertively in refusing offers to use drugs.

Managing Stress
Without Taking Drugs

Stress offers to physical and mental strain felt about a situation or an event. The reaction that stress triggers in the body, mind, and emotions can be helpful under certain conditions, but may be harmful if uncontrolled.

To help students recognize stress encountered in their daily living and to suggest ways to deal with it other than by taking drugs.

Students will be able to identify stresses in their lives.

Reducing Violence

Reducing violence involves finding mutually acceptable ways to resolve disagreements without resorting to destructive acts.

To help students recognize that destructive acts or violence are inappropriate ways to deal with anger and to resolve disagreements.

Students will be able to identify nonviolent ways to deal with anger and disagreement.

Combating Media
Influences on drug
Use and Violence

Making Decisions
About Risky
Behaviors

Decision-making skills help people evaluate the risks involved in a situation, the choices available to them, and the consequences of these choices.

To help students apply the decision-making process in evaluating the consequences of various kinds of risk taking behavior, including that of using drugs, tagging, and using weapons.

Students will be able to apply decision-making skills in evaluating the risks in situations involving using drugs, tagging, and using weapons.

Saying Yes
to Positive Alternatives

Activities that students find interesting and rewarding can serve as positive alternatives to substance abuse.

To help students find activities that are interesting and rewarding alternatives to drug use.

Student will identify and participate in positive alternative activities which they may find interesting and in which they can achieve success.

Having Positive
Role Models

High school student leaders who do not use drugs can serve as positive role models in influencing younger students not to use drugs.

To acquaint students with high school leaders who do not use drugs and to clarify the misconception that drug users are in the majority.

Students will identify ways that successful high school students avoid the use of drugs by participating in a variety of positive activities.

The negative consequences resulting from gang and group violence affect all members of the community.

To help students recognize the negative consequences of gangs and group violence and to help them resist becoming involved.

Students will be able to identify the negative consequences of gang and group violence and will suggest ways to avoid becoming involved.

To help students summarize and assess what they learned from participating in Project DARE.

Students will respond appropriately as a team to questions involving drug use and violence.

Taking a Stand

Taking a stand means giving the appropriate response when you are pressured to use drugs or to act violently.

To help students respond effectively when they are pressured to use drugs.

Students will take a positive stand to be drug free and to avoid violence by putting their commitment in writing and reading it aloud.

Dare
Culmination

Encouraging students to make pledges publicly in the presence of their family members, teachers, and peers can increase their personal commitment to stay drug free and violence free.

To provide an appropriate DARE culminating activity to recognize individual achievement of all participants and to reinforce the values and skills they have learned.

Students will participate in an appropriate DARE culminating activity which recognizes individual achievement of all participants and reinforces the values and skills they have all learned.

The DARE program has recently come under scrutiny for not being effective. The general consensus of the class was the the DARE program cannot due the task alone, that there must be parental values and guidance involved. Parents must be good role models to their children to win the war on drugs. And by the way, it is a war.

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin
(never know to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my request. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this request; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this request in your hands. (3 times)

• Teachers from page 1

High School teacher Virginia Blodgett presented a report to the School Committee on professional development in the Wilmington Schools.

Nielsen said that recertification is between the teacher and the state, but each school system " has the distinct obligation to offer no-cost training."

Nielsen observed that the school budget allows $93,000 for teachers' professional development.

Nielsen said that during the 1997-1998 school year, the number of substitute teachers needed to cover teachers away on professional development tasks is to increase, but will level off after that.

Clarkin said that no matter how good a substitute teacher is, the students lose out when the teacher is not there. She said teacher development should take place on Saturday, Sunday, and evenings.

Committee member Robert Young observed that it is very difficult to find professional development seminars on weekends or during the summer. Another committee member observed that teachers do have private lives including families, and implied teachers' out-of-school time resources are less than limitless.

Committee chairperson Barbara Breaky said she was concerned that it was so difficult to obtain substitute teachers for high school classes.

Young asked if the problem could be solved by paying subs more money. Director of Administration and Finance Bradford Jackson claimed that if Wlimington were to pay substitute teachers more than surrounding towns, the other towns would quickly pay more and Wilmington would again be looking for subs.

According to the School Superintendent's administrative office, for a non-degree substitute teacher, the pay is $40 per day, and for a substitute who holds a college degree, the pay is $45 per day for the first ten days, and $50 after that. The days do not have to be consecutive.

(As a reference, Winchester, a $61.14 per day.)

Contacted by phone, Blodgett, who teaches in the Wilmington High School math department, explained that it is now part of the contract for Wilmington teachers to take a three-day summer session, part of a six-day-long course entitled "Understanding Teaching I." Each teacher must take the three-day summer session sometime during a three year-period (the life of the current contract.)

The course is paid for by the town and is given by Research for Better Teaching, a consulting group from Carlisle. Blodgett explained that the courses are given right in the school, which is less expensive than sending teachers off-site.

Blodgett explained that teachers are expected to complete the other three days of the 6-day course during the school year, using professional development days during which their classes are covered by substitute teachers.

Each teacher has writing assignments, teacher observations, and readings to complete between each day-long session, the school-year sessions usually being spaced about a month apart, said Blodgett.

Blodgett said the "Understanding Teaching" sessions emphasize what is called student-centered teaching. Teachers who were trained 15 to 20 years ago were not necessarily heavily exposed to the student-centered method, said Blodgett.

In student-centered teaching, group work and group problem solving are emphasized, said Blodgett. As a result of the course, said Blodgett, she would no longer rely solely on a lecture in which she defined and presented the formula for a parabola, with the follow-up being indivdual homework.

Now, said Blodgett, she provides the students with information describing parabola attributes, and asks small groups of students to each draw a figure that represents the definition.

The students discover the relationship between the description and the drawing they make, so when Blodgett presents the final formula, it makes sense to the students, she said.

The "Understanding Teaching" course also provides techniques to help students work successfully in groups, said Blodgett. For example, to avoid having one or two people in each group do all the work, said Blodgett, the seminar teachers suggested assigning a specific task to each student and not tell in advance who in the group must present the group's results. That means each student has to be able to explain the results, so students who catch on to one concept quickly help other students to understand that concept, said Blodgett.

"It's amazing to me how much students have adapted to doing group work and how they are benefitting... it's more effective than a lecture," said Blodgett.

Blodgett noted, however, that there is still place for lecturing. The point of the seminar is, said Blodgett, that a teacher must use multiple methods and balance them.

MBTA commuter rail station.

The proposal calls for the installation of two 800 ft. handicap accessible platforms, and a 300 car parking area complete with wheelchair ramps.

Despite a request from Wilmington officials to include an 8,000 sq. ft. retail building in the parking area, there was no such building in the artist's rendering presented to the board.

In response, MBTA's Deputy director of Construction William Quinlan said that the building would be incorporated into the design upon receiving further information.

"The more input we get, the better off we'll be," said Quinlan

In addition to the commuter rail station, Miceli stated that he and other residents are in favor of planting trees in the Town Center vicinity once renovations are completed.

"We want some beautification. We're all working together toward one goal. We want that Town Center to stop looking like an old cowboy movie. Esthetically, it's a disaster," Miceli said.

According to Quinlan, the final design of the proposed MBTA facility is scheduled to be completed by late summer or early fall of 1998, with an estimated overall cost ranging from $4 million to $7 million.

15 year old Wilmington boxer

Going for Olympic Gold

by JAMIE POTE

Just more than a year ago, the story was told about Mike Murphy, then a 14-year old junior high student from Wilmington, who's hard work, determination and dedication earned him three wins as an amateur boxer.

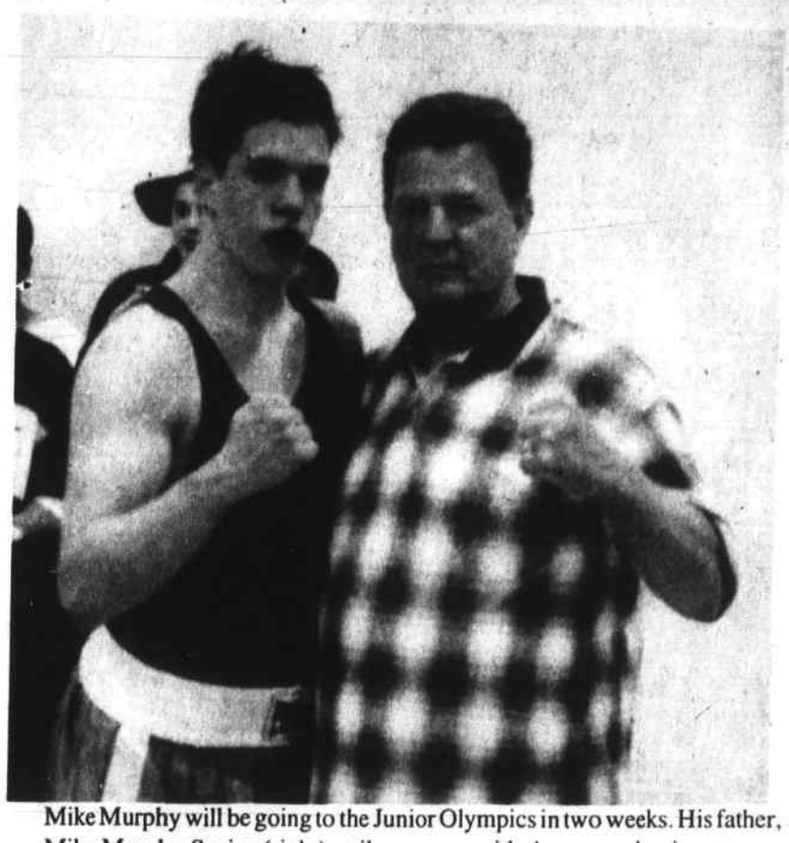

Since that time, Murphy has not only added 22 pounds of pure muscle to his frame, he has also added three titles because of his incredible work ethic and determination.

Now at 15, Murphy will be flying out to Marquette, Michigan on June 16th to the 23rd to take part in the National Junior Olympics Boxing Tournament in which he will fight for five straight days.

Just a week ago, Murphy earned that shot by becoming the Metro-Region Junior Olympic champion in the 178-pound weight class in a tournament held in Lake Placid, New York. And to get to Lake Placid, Murphy also took a gold as the New England Junior Olympic Boxing Champion.

"He has done really well," said his father Mike, senior. "He looks great, he really does. We are really excited about going. I know he can do well and win it, but either way he has done really well."

If Mike is successful in Michigan, he then will advance to compete in the Inter-Continental Junior Olympics which will be held in Colorado Springs which will feature amateur boxers from at least nine different countries.

Mike Murphy will be going to the Junior Olympics in two weeks. His father, Mike Murphy Senior (right) strikes a pose with the young boxing star.

Behind several dingers, baseball team qualifies

by JAMIE POTE

This was quite a memorable week for the Wilmington High School baseball team.

Last Wednesday the Cats lost to North Reading, but the highlight of that game was the tremendous homerun by catcher Dick Gillis that went over everything. The next day, Eric McKenna and Phil Bates both went deep and pitcher Scott Swiezynski threw a five inning no-hitter as the Cats demolished Hamilton-Wenham 18-4 to qualify for the state tournament for the first time in four seasons. Then on Monday afternoon, Lee

McManus seeing a lot more success

by JAMIE POTE

Matt McManus, a Wilmington High School graduate of 1992, has surely come along way.

•A good, solid pitcher in high school, McManus went onto Northeastern University. He was red-shirted as a freshman and then about a year-and-a-half later, McManus suffered a very serious injury to his right eye as a ball hit him in a freak accident and to this day, he still has perminant damage. However, that set him back a little bit, but not once did he give up on his dream and his love for the game of baseball.

This past week, McManus and the rest of his Northeastern teammates took part in the Western Regional NCAA Division I Baseball Tournament out in California where it faced Stanford, University who not only hosted the tournament, but they were the sixth ranked team in the country and the number one seeded team in their bracket while NU was sixth.

McManus got the call in game one against Carl Peterson, who was just named as a two-time All-American and will likely be a first round pick in next month's baseball draft. Anyway, McManus with his mid-80's fastball along with a over the top curve ball and a circle-change-up, challenged the tough Stanford batters, and even though the score doesn't indicate it, McManus pitched very well against a team who is presently playing in the College World Series.

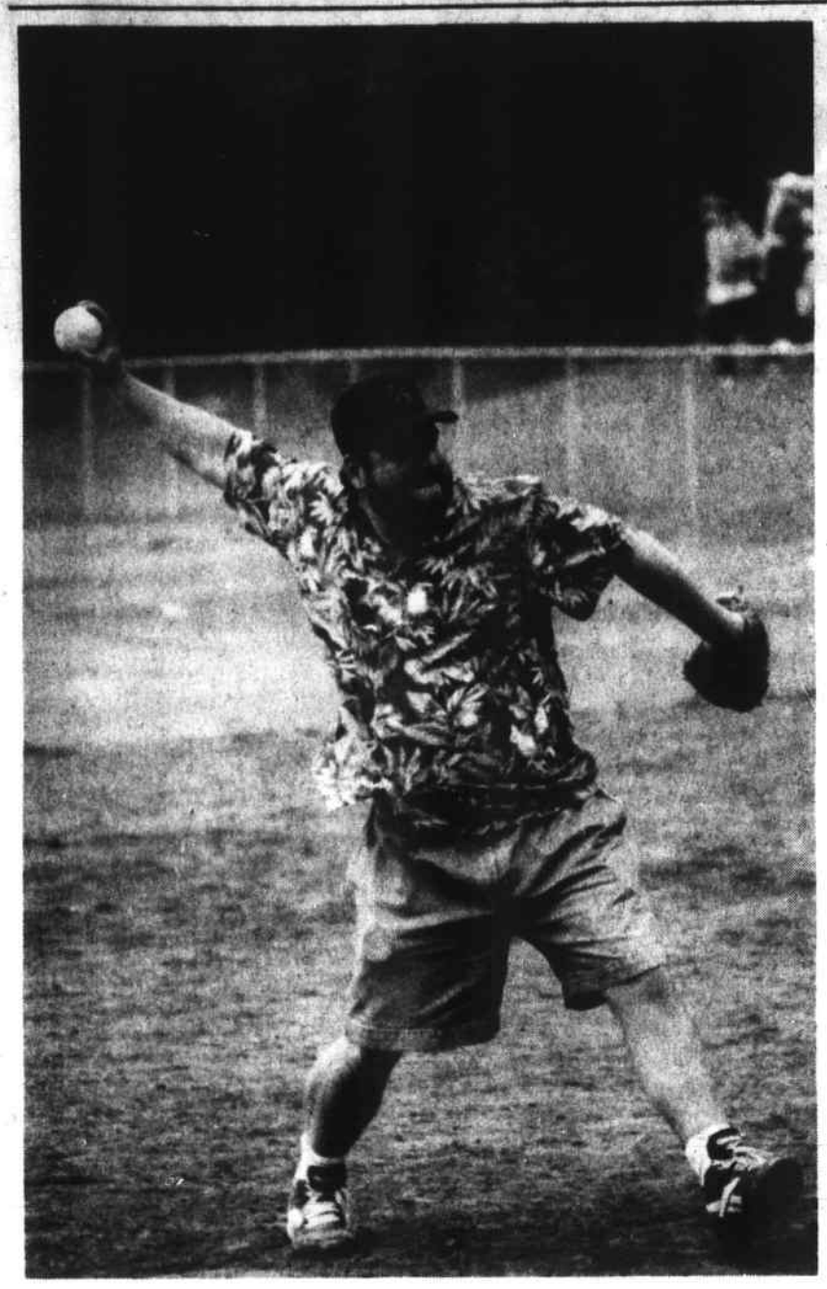

"We were in it up until the fifth inning," said McManus as the Huskies lost 12-3 in game one and then lost the second game in the best-out-of-three series. "I gave up two runs in the first inning and then I started to settle down a bit. I just didn't do what I did to get me there. I didn't change speeds and locations, I kept my change-up thigh high and none of breaking balls were breaking.

"It was definitely a fun and Summer softball tryouts

Wilmington Youth Softball Summer League tryouts for all interested 13-year-olds will be held Sunday, June 1 at the North Intermediate School beginning at 1 p.m.

Rob Santos unleashes a pitch for the Class of 1982, in the annual Tom Aprile Battle of the Classes softball tournament held this past weekend at Aprile Field. McManus from page 1B good experience. They are a very good team and just the exposure was well worth it. We had such a great year, last year we were under .500 and we only had two pitchers coming back this year who had any kind of experience at all. We rose above what anyone thought we could do. We finished 33-17 and we faced the sixth best team in the country and that says a lot. Our younger players stepped up huge for us. It was definitely a fun year and a fun five years," McManus continued.

In two weeks, McManus will graduate NU with a Bachelor's Degree in Physical Therapy. He is just the second player ever at NU to play five years of baseball and study and graduate with a physical therapy degree and he also ranks number five of all-time in wins as a NU pitcher.

"When I started five years ago and I got red-shirted that was really tough. I never sat on the bench before and to sit there the entire year, practicing and not playing in the games was really humbling. But, that enabled me to learn the program, if I didn't get red-shirted I wouldn't have been enable to play while finishing up my degree. I'm really happy I was red-shirted.

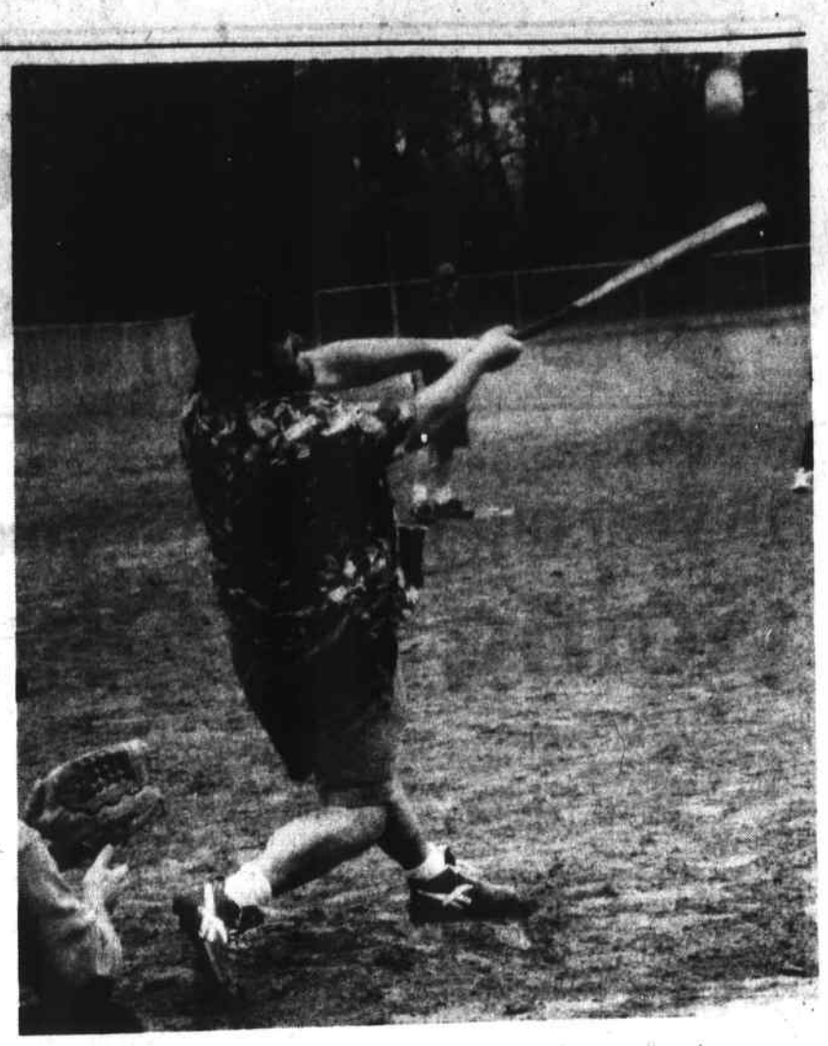

"My coach and I had butted heads a few times mostly because I wasn't one of his top recruits and he didn't think I had it in me to compete at this level. I think I have done pretty well, my first start was at Fenway Park in the Beanpot Tournament and now I leave as the fifth best pitcher of all-time in wins with 13," McManus said.

McManus ends his career going 13-8, which includes going 6-4 this season with three of his losses by one-run while he also had a very respectable 3.20 E.R.A. He pitched over 70 innings this year, while breaking a school record with a 5-to-1 strikeout to walk ratio for those who started at least ten games during one season. McManus did so with 50 strikeouts and ten walks.

As for a chance of continuing his career possibly at the professional level, McManus said "I have had a few nibbles, but nothing serious. They are looking for guys who can throw in the high 80's and faster than that - I kind of pitch backwards, my curve ball is my bread and butter pitch and then I sneak my fastball in. I'm not waiting by the phone for a call by a scout, some have talked to my coach about me, but I don't think that day will come," McManus said.

It's really amazing to think that McManus has done all of this with basically one eye as his other one might never be the same again. He says that his depth perception is really off and in baseball terms he has trouble particularly on low grounders and hard line drives.

Perhaps that says everything one would want to know about his character, his will, his determination, his love and his thrive to achieve and to be successful in life.

Girls under 10B team takes on Wakefield

On May 10, the Wilmington girls under 10 B youth soccer team traveled to Wakefield on a rainy, drizzily day.

This game was to be a defensive struggle as both teams limited opposing shots on goal. In the first hale, Wilmington started very slowly as Wakefield dominated. If it wasn't for great defensive play by Amy McHale and Meghan Flynn, Wakefield would have scored early. Mid-way through the first half Wilmington began to wake up and the play equalized. There was no scoring on either side until a Wakefield player broke down the left wing and delivered a shot into the lower right hand corner of the goal for a 1-0 Wakefield lead.

The half ended with Wilmington down one goal. Second half action once again saw outstanding goal tending by both teams. Kerri Porter for Wilmington made several spectacualr saves on some of the Wakefield sharp shooters. Krystina Smith and Bridget Kent continued Wilmington's strong backfield support. Wilmington struggled to generate any offense in the second half. The team's best scoring chance came when Kelly Crosby dropped a pass back to Marjorie Taylor. Marge fired off a quick shot in the upper right hand corner of the goal, only to be denied by the Wakefield keeper. The final score ended with Wakefield the victors 1-0.

The following week, Wilmington traveled to North Reading to take on the division leading Hornets. North Reading scored first in the game on a scramble in front of the Wilmington net. Marjorie Taylor made several stops before being knocked down. This left a wide open net for North Reading. Midway through the first half Wilmington evened the score when Erica Frizol took the ball deep into the North Reading zone and fed a perfect pass to Sarah McGowan in the middle. Sarah fired the ball quickly past the Hornet net minder to even the score 1-1.

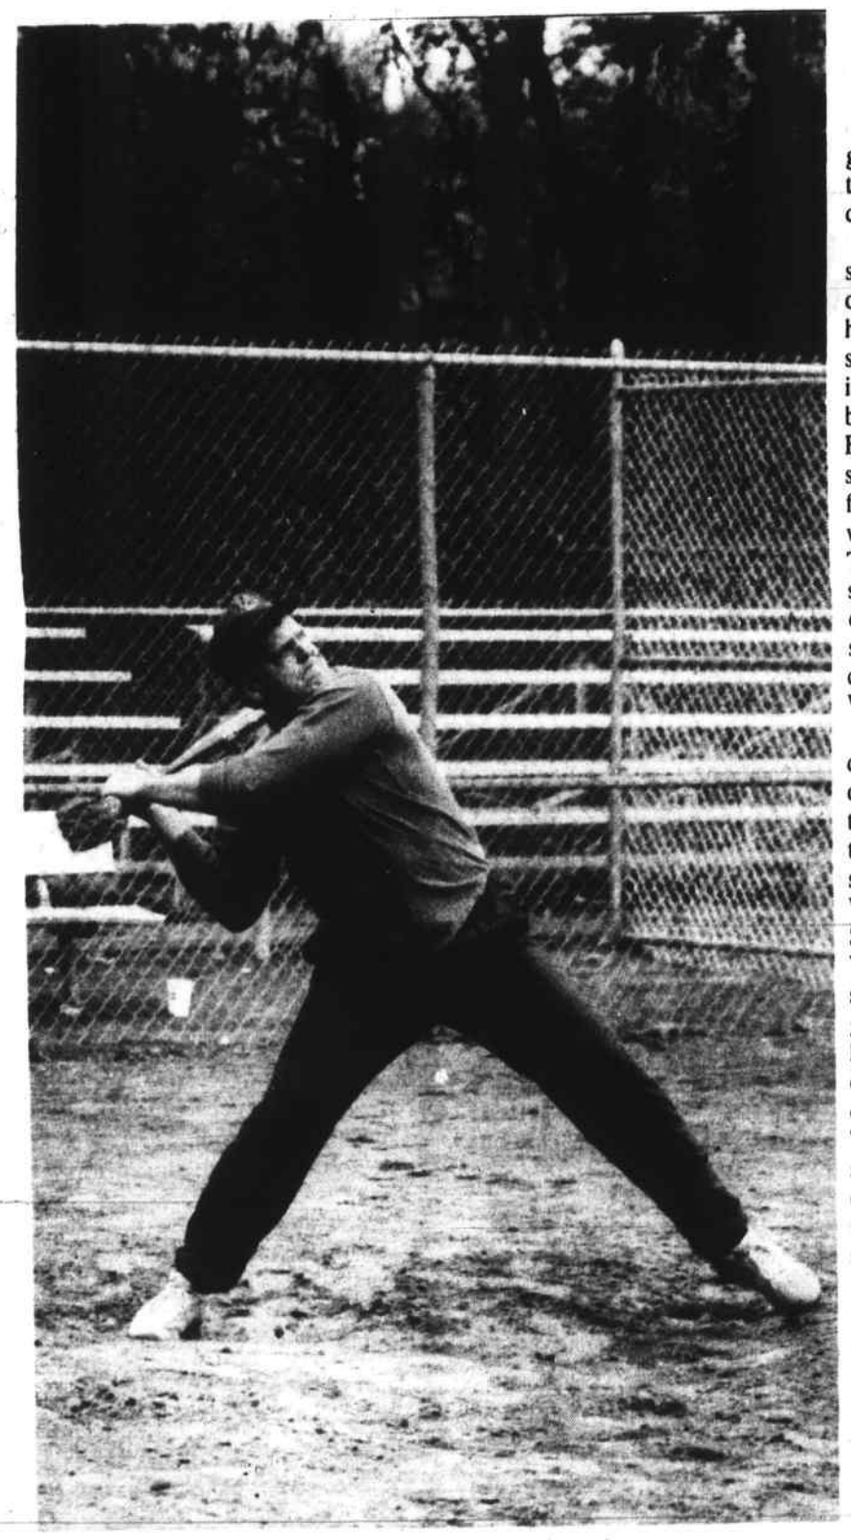

Shortly thereafter, Sarah McGowan scored her second goal of the game after she was on the end of a passing combination from Erica Frizol and Amber Warnick. Sarah drove a blasting kick off the goaltender and into the corner of the net for a 2-1 Wilmington lead when the half ended.

The Hornets came out of the half time break strong and "stung" the Wilmington team with two quick goals. Wilmington attempted to come right back when Amber Warnick took the ball and streaked down the left wing. Warnick fired the ball that hit the crossbar and drifted away. Wilmington could not tie the score and the game ended 3-2 in favor of North Reading.

A makeup game forced the girls to play a midweek game at Shawsheen Field against a strong Medford United team. Defense was the name of the game in the first half. Wilmington defensive backs Amy McHale, Krystina Smith, Meghan Flynn and Bridget Kent controlled the ball for Wilmington. Bridget Kent set up many breaks with her constant rushes.

After a Medford score, Wilmington answered right back with a nifty goal. Bridget Kent, on a throw-in delivered the ball to a streaking Jessica Alosco who placed it in the corner of the net for a 1-1 tie.

In the second half, Wilmington had a temporary defensive let down that allowed Medford to score its second goal of the game. Wilmington was determined to once again answer. Kelley Crosby had several rushes down the field. Late in the game Crosby fired the ball on the fly from just outside the penalty area. The shot sailed to the upper left hand corner of the net but the Medford goaltender made an outstanding stop. Despite the outstanding effort in goal by Kerri Porter, Wilmington suffered another close loss 2-1.

Coach would like to know 'has anyone seen my team'

by JAMIE POTE

When asked what happened to his team on Friday night's 8-2 loss to Amesbury, Wilmington High School softball coach Paul Lyman joked by saying he was going to put an announcement in at WHS, asking "if anyone has seen the softball team, please contact Paul Lyman."

Joking aside, it was one of those nights in which nothing went right for the Cats. Lyman admitted that he never thought this year's team would have been 17-0 at that point. However, he thought and still thinks that he has a better club than that of Amesbury, even though his club lost the first round 8-2.

"No one played well. Amy [Surran] couldn't find the plate, she walked eight and threw seven wild pitches," Lyman explained. "It wasn't all her though, no one played well. The defense was no where to be found and when we needed a big hit, we didn't get it. I don't know what it was, whether it was the pressure of the game, or what, we didn't play well, it's over and now we have to regroup and go on from here."

After the first three innings, Wilmington was down 7-0. They had a few chances to get back in the game, but they just couldn't get a timely hit as they left five runners on in the next two innings.

Like Lyman said, its one game, one loss and its now out the window.

In other softball news, Catherine Townsend, a junior shortstop who batted well over .500 for the season, was voted along with Amesbury pitcher Nikki Savastano as the co-M.V.P's of the Cape Ann League like Savastano and Lisa Southmayd were a year ago. Along with Townsend, Jill Lojek, Southmayd and Surran were also named to the Cape Ann League All-League squad and they and Melissa Mather and Julie Gillis were named to the all-star team.

The Cats will rap up their regular season this week with a non-league contest at Medford before the state tournament begins sometime next week.

College round-up once again filled with local athletes

by JAMIE POTE

As another sports season and school season is coming to an end, several local college-athletes continue to excel at that level.

Nancy Pote of Wilmington, was recently chosen the winner of the Saint Joseph's College of Maine Best Defensive Player Award for the second straight season at second base. Pote, a sophomore, committed just seven errors in 141 chances, good for a .950 fielding percentage. Offensively, she batted .260 and was second on the team with 13 walks and 10 stolen bases.

St. Joseph's won the Maine Athletic Conference Title and went on to lose in the semifinals of the NAIA Northeast Region Tournament. The Monks posted a 30-7 record, their third consecutive 30-win season.

"Nancy's value went well beyond the numbers," commented head coach Curt Smyth. "I have not seen a second baseman with her range and her mobility. At the plate, she was an asset hitting in the second spot. Her bunting skills and ability to execute the squeeze play helped us out in many ballgames."

Moving on to another softball player excelling at UMass-Lowell is freshman Pamela McNeil. McNeil a graduate of Austin Prep, earned a spot on the first team all-league NECC list after notching a team best .436 batting average (41 hits) that included 18 stolen bases in 19 attempts in 31 outings.

Speaking of UMass-Lowell, five student-athletes were recently recognized for their excellence on both the field and in the class room and they are: (from Tewksbury) Carrie Dwan and Erin Livingston (women's crew) and Heather Ferrand (women's track); (from Wilmington) Adrien Grise (men's track) and Dennis Lee (football).

Finally, Suzanne Whitnell of Tewksbury, finished up another strong season in track and field at Fitchburg College as she was part of the 4x800 relay team.

Trimarchi threw a beautiful one-hitter as the Cats beat Newburyport in the first end of the annual four-team tournament, 6-1.

"Lee had a great day. He pitched very well and he also went 3-for-3 at the plate with two doubles, a single and two rbi's," Scanlon said.

Now at 11-5 overall, the Cats have a busy week to tune up before they enter the state tournament sometime next week. On Wednesday, the Cats will travel to Greater Lawrence before coming home on Thursday against Bedford. On Saturday, the Cats will play a doubleheader. At 2:00, Tewksbury will come in to make up their game from April 9th and at 4:00 Malden Catholic will come to WHS to play the championship game of the four-team tourney as the first day of the tournament, Sunday, was cancelled due to rain.

Girls Under 10A youth soccer team dazzling

Taking a break from the regular season, the Wilmington Girls U10A team dazzled in the Danvers Memorial Day tournament, performing so well against solid competition that they came away undefeated in all four games with no goals scored against them.

On Saturday, May 24, the Lady Wildcats played three games in eight hours under sometimes cloudy, breezy and cool conditions, other times sun drenched and warm. No matter the conditions nor the opponents' capabilities, and despite playing short handed, the girls rose to each challenge.

First up that morning was Ipswich, and Wilmington prevailed, 3-0. In the first half, forward Caitlin McNabb showed her superb ball handling skills and delivered two net ticklers by maneuvering past the entire defense and faking out the keeper.

On a direct kick in the second half, defender Julia Leverone blasted the ball to the inside top of the net to end the scoring for the game.

On a sunny and much warmer early Saturday afternoon, the girls played game two with a very tough Danvers team. The first half saw plenty of give and go and limited shots on net. Despite the opposing team's tightly knit defense, midfielder Nicole Sauve wove her way from the midfield to the top of Danvers' box and blasted a beauty to the left corner of the net for the only goal of the game.

The tide almost turned in the second half with Danvers dominating the offensive play. Although Danvers pressed strongly from midfield, their multiple shots on goal, including a post banger, were all thwarted by a strong Wilmington defense.

Game three was played under windy and variable weather conditions with Wilmington beating Marblehead 1-0 late Sunday afternoon. Again this game saw a defensive battle in the first half, with no scoring and limited offensive opportunities.

Catching their second wind in the second half, the Lady Wildcats came out a different team. Within the first minute, lightning quick forward Jackie Rideout took a lone pass from midfielder Nicole Sauve, blew past the entire Marblehead defense and blazed the ball into the lower left corner past an unprotected goalie for the sole score.

On a cool and drizzly Sunday afternoon, Wilmington returned for the final game with Winchester. With few exceptions, the Wildcats dominated the game, winning 2-0. The offense and defense were coordinated, making many fine passes that produced multiple shots on net. Not until the last minute of the first half did the girls find the back of the net.

A fine pass from midfielder Teresa DeSmione was played forward by Debbie Lyons to a perfectly positioned Celine DeMaggio who delivered the first goal. Midway in the second half the girls scored again, this time by midfielder Nicole Sauve who beat the entire defense single handedly.

Winchester had a few key opportunities in the second half, most notably a series of corner kicks, but Wilmington rallied and cleared all shots.

Keeper Stephanie Ramsdell turned in four fine performances, knocking away all opportunities and making key saves in all games.

Defenders Caitlin Foley and Julia Leverone and sweeper Jacqueline Spry were virtually impenetrable.

Congratulations on a fine team performance by Teresa DeSimone, Celine DeMaggio, Caitlin Foley, Julie Leverone, Debbie Lyons, Caitlin McNabb, Stephanie Ramsdell, Jackie Rideout, Nicole Sauve and Jacqueline Spry!

Girls under 9A youth soccer

The Wilmington Girls Under 9A youth soccer team traveled to Concord for week night makeup game.

With the rain coming down and the field getting slick, the Wilmington team got off to a fast start and never looked back. Kelley Lemke netted Wilmington's first goal during the game's opening shift on some fine passing by Mallory DeRosa and Erin Magee. Defenders Taryn Martiniello and Katie Bolger along with keeper Danielle O'Shea stopped the Concord advances. Wilmington stayed on the attack and the result was another goal by Kelley Lemke on a great hustle play. Concord broke through for its only score right before the half.

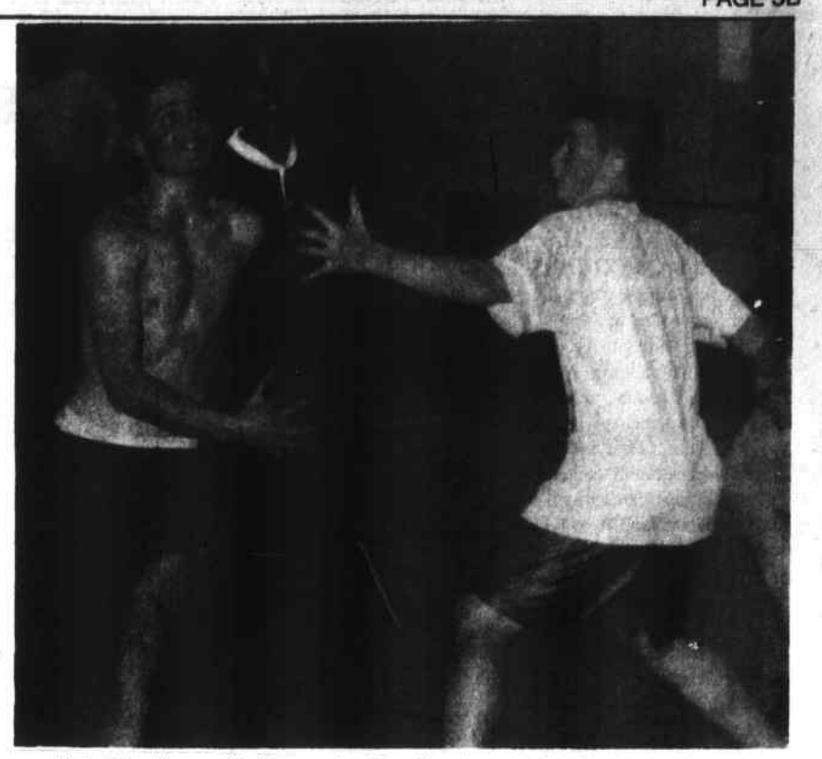

The second half opened with Wilmington charging up field using its terrific passing and speed. Erin Magee pounced on a rebound off a corner kick and the Wildcats were on the scoreboard again. Katelyn Maggio, Alicia Faulkner and Ashley Bruno played super defense in front of keeper Katie Bolger to completely shut down the Concord attack.

Wilmington then took off to the races as Samantha Canning raced down field on perfect passing by Erin Magee and Amanda Miles to score the fourth goal of the game. Christina Luciano out ran the demoralized Concord defense to net the final goal of the game giving the girls a super victory 5-1.

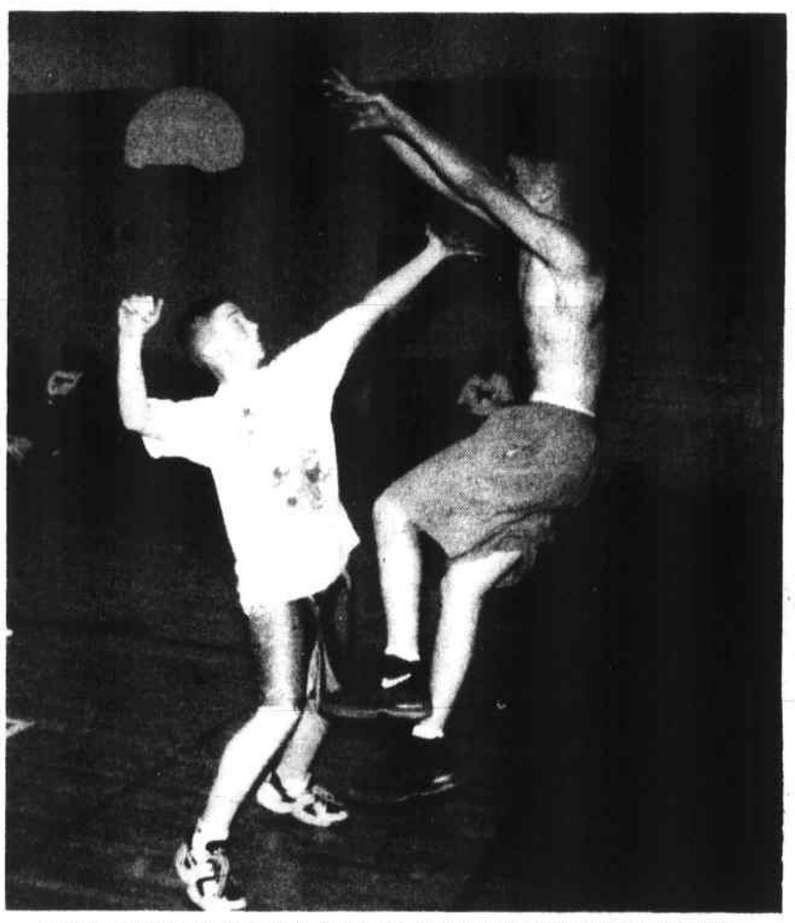

The next game was a rematch of the week one battle between Wilmington and Waltham. Playing on their home field, Waltham was anxious to get off to a fast start but solid defense by Katie Bolger and Taryn Martiniello held them back. The tight defense continued as Ashley Bruno and Katelyn Maggio Moved the ball smartly up to forwards Mallory DeRosa and Kelley Lemke who passed across to a streaking Erin Magee for the goal. Keepers Danielle O'Shea and Katie Bolger made this goal stand up as they blanked the Waltham offense the rest of the game.

Wilmington continued to get plenty of scoring chances as Amanda Miles and Taryn Martiniello peppered a busy Waltham keeper. Samantha Canning and Christina Luciano sped by the opponents to keep the pressure on while Alicia Faulkner guarded the Wilmington end.

The Wildcats continued to dominate the game hitting the posts and crossbar several times but unable to put another ball past the gritty keeper and the game ended in a 1-0 victory for Wilmington.

North takes the trophy back

The third annual Wilmington DARE co-ed 3-on-3 basketball tournament concluded Tuesday afternoon. The previous two years were split with the North winning the first year and the West winning last year. This year the trophy returns to the North.

The North team of Eric Swiezynski, Josh Hiltz and Lori Vachon defeated the West team that consisted of Matt Jordan, JIm Fennelly and Molly Pidgeon.

The tournament is held each spring at both the North and the West with the winners facing off for the team trophy. The trophy will be on display at the North until next spring when it goes up for grabs again.

Thanks to all students who participated in the tournament. A special thanks goes out to Bill Peabody for running the West Tournament.

Coconuts going crazy

The girls Under 10 Wilmington youth soccer team also known as "The Coconuts" is currently undefeated 5-0 this spring season.

The goal keeping duties of Alicia Braid have been outstanding as she prevents the all getting into the net. As well as being goalkeeper, Alicia is a fantastic player as a forward.

The defense of Sarah Rufo,Katie Celli, Katieanne Martell and Julianne Martell are strong at keeping the ball out of their zone and moving it up the field.

The offense of Kristen Donovan, Laura Crawford, Lauren Cronan, Kaitlin Chakoian, Kim Gentile and Lauren McGonagle are incredible. These forwards are able to control the ball and pass to one another to score. The passing with all the players has improved greatly.

Their first game against Waltham was won by a score of 5-2. The second game against Malden at Shawsheen was by a score of 5-2.

The next game they played Billerica at Billerica. They won the game 1-0. The game against Everett The Coconuts won 8-0. They recently played in Lincoln and won by a score of 2-0. Both goals were scored by Lauren McGonagle. The passing between Lauren McGonagle and Kristen Donovan as they run up the field together is tremendous.

This team is hard at improving their skills and having fun playing each other.

Since last fall the team is undefeated. Record to date is 13 wins and no losses.

The Coconuts won again, this time by a score of 3-0 against Waltham, with helpful passes by Laura Crawford and Julianne Martell.

With fantastic defense by Sarah Rubo, the kids who scored were amazing - Katie Chakoian, Alicia Braid and Katie Celli. Katieanne Martell was great, in goal with many saves. Lauren Cronin and Kimberly Gentile were marvelous going right up the field and trying to score for the team.

Kristen Donovan has been great at forward this season.

Mike Murphy on the right, is about to be announced the winner and the champion of the New England Junior Olympics in a recent bout.

Under 10-6 youth soccer team are unbeatable

This story was supposed to have appeared two weeks ago, the Town Crier is totally responsible for the mistake and apologies for any incoveniences it might have caused.*

WILMINGTON--The Wilmington U10-6 youth soccer team is becoming unstoppable! Only eight members of the team were able to travel to Waltham to defend our winning record, but these eight young men were up for the challenge. Working with only two substitutes meant a lot of playing time for the players involved, and they gave 100 percent effort for the entire 50 minutes of the game.

Wilmington came out hard and fast. Realizing that fatigue may play a factor later in the game, they knew that they needed to score quickly. Michael Adams was the first to put the ball into the net for Wilmington. This young man played with the same intensity during the first minutes as he did the last. His never say die attitude carried over to his teammates, who all truly played their hearts out. Mark Walsh, utilized as both a forward and a defender, was next to score for his team.

On the front line, Jesse Belding's crisp passing was key to many of our offensive drives. Jesse was responsible for an earlier assist and then a second assist for Richard Barry to give Wilmington a 3-0 lead at the half.

Wilmington kept the pressure on the Waltham side of the field the entire time. First half goalie Brian Dalton and second half goalie Bryan Raposo had little to do in net, but were powerful when they had field time.

Bryan Raposo was part of a vital defensive squad that kept the play out of their goalie's zone. Brian Dalton kept the ball driving toward the Waltham goal during his time as a forward.

Patrick Storey hustled continuously, never giving Waltham a chance to shoot on net. Sean MacPherson, also played both defensive and offensive positions, was impressive in both areas. Sean narrowly missed capitalizing on several scoring opportunities, keeping the Waltham goalie working until the final whistle.

Watching the constant hustle of players like Patrick Storey, Richard Barry, Bryan Dalton and Michael Adams, one would never know that these players had little rest throughout the match. And the dual position efforts of Mark Walsh, Sean MacPherson, Jesse Belding and Bryan Raposo are further examples of what a strong and well rounded team that these boys compile. And, so far, that is proving to be an unbeatable combination!

The final score was Wilmington 3 - Waltham 0.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

TAKING A NEW RISK?

QUESTION: I am about to sign a contract that will involve some new risks for our company. Should I have my insurance agent check it out first?

ANSWER: If there's a new risk involved in a contract you expect to sign, let your agent read it before you commit yourself. Maybe the coverage you already have is adequate. However, if it isn't, you could be in hot water if something goes wrong. The water could get very hot if there's a lot of money involved.

Use the expert advice of your insurance agent when you need it. There's no charge for the service. Make sure your agent knows your risk exposures and he'll do his best to see that you are protected.

IF YOU ARE ABOUT to take a new business risk, consult with your insurance agent first.

Boys under 9B soccer

The Wilmington Boys Under 9B team opened the second half of its spring season with a 9-0 road drubbing of Burlington, in a one-sided match played at Rahanis Park. The victors demonstrated team oriented soccer, filling the passing lanes, and showing total unselfishness that a coach always longs for.

As a result, eight out of 12 players were able to get a goal, or assist, or both. Wilmington held a 3-0 halftime lead and added a half dozen more goals in the seconded half as the well conditioned Wildcats just ran Burlington ragged. The scoring summary of the game was as follows:

	G	A
P.J. Russo	2	2
Sean Murphy	2	2
Kevin McDonough	2	1
Josh Mayo	1	2
Tony Karalekas	1	2
Brian Bolger	1	1
Rocco Puccio	0	2
Scott Sferrazza	0	1

A nice highlight for the team was that for Mayo, Bolger and McDonough, it was all their initial goals of the season and their hard work has paid off.

On the defensive end, Justin Patrie, Jonathan Langone and Derek DeRosa were all over the field breaking up all potential Burlington bids. Goalie duty was divided eight ways with Mayo, McDonough, Russo and Karalekas blanking Burlington in the last half, and Chris Crosby, Langone, Murphy and Sferrazza shutting the door in the second half to preserve the shutout, which was the team's fourth in a row.

Wilmington is presently 6-0 on the season, and they can take a giant step toward the playoffs if successful in their next two games,both at home vs Medford (4) and Malden. Between those games, there will be a weekend tuneup as the team participates in the Round Robin Tournament for under 10 at the fourth annual Tufts Bowl, held at the University in Medford.

Shawsheen Tech sports round-up

Although many sports fans have their eyes on the Rams baseball and softball teams, at 12-1 and 11-1 respectively as they enter the final two weeks of play, a closer inspection shows that all spring sports at the Tech are doing very well. In fact, the 1996-97 school year record is pretty outstanding.

Athletic Director Ron Nowakowski pulls out the sheets of paper, carefully charted by hand since the first game of fall, and reads off the statistics: the year's record, as of May 15, is 134-43-6, which means young Shawsheen athletes have won 75 percent of their meets, matches and games.

"We're in a really good trend," says the AD. "This means that every time we play four games, we win three." The record is even better when looking exclusively at spring sports: 35-5-1, or 86.6 of the games are victories.

Nowakowski is afraid to predict, but cannot hold back his enthusiasm. "We have a chance of bringing home seven banners this year - that's the most we've ever won." The walls of the Shawsheen Tech gym are well decorated with banners from over the years, and fall and winter sports earned five. Along with banners for cross country, volleyball, wrestling, girls basketball and girls league meet swimming championship, both baseball and softball could bring home the fabric of championship.

Teamwork and team members

Corey Love, with an "almost unheard of batting average in high school" of .500, according to Nowakowski, leads Rams baseball as a strong left handed batter, who owes some of his skill to great coaching from Arthur Thompson.

Perhaps his math teacher saw the mathematical possibilities in Corey getting a stronger grip on the bat. Also outstanding were pitchers Pat Fennell and Chris Barrasso and defensive players Al Dares, third base and Jim Burke, shortstop. Lower Division champs for the past two years, the Rams might be reevaluated if they take the league title this year.

Improvement came during the season, through building of the chemistry that makes a unified team, as well as Thompson's skills in choosing substitutes and pitchers. Nowakowski recalls how they lost 8-1 to Greater Lowell in preseason, then trounced them 10-1 in a late season game.

Rams baseball also provides "one of the best teams to watch," says Nowakowski. Shawsheen keeps it lively, with "nine or ten" runs ever game.

Softball in first place

There's a lot of pressure when you're number one, as the Rams softball team knows. Coach Ed Gillis has led a talented team to its 11-1 record, with Stacy Ennis, leading pitcher (.39 earned runs), another "unbelievable record for high school,"notes the AD. Ennis seldom walks a batter. There are great batting averages for Shawsheen players; junior Nicole Stanasek, short stop, .560; senior Deanna Tassi, outfielder, .545; senior Mary Baja,catcher, .530.

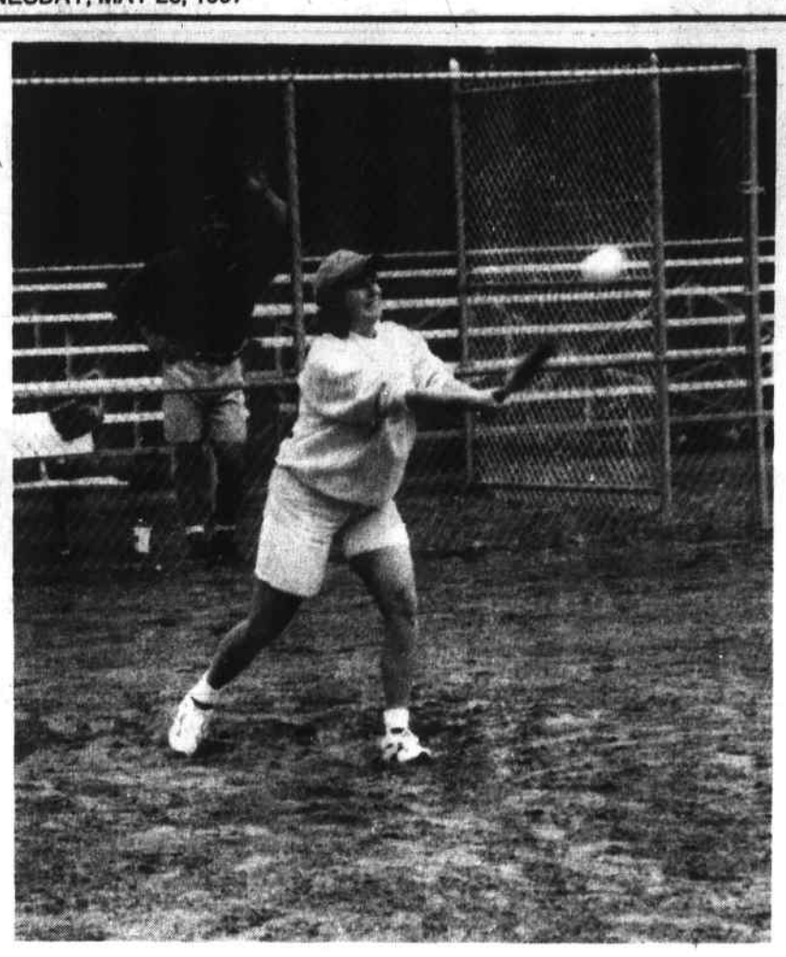

Other spring teams are looking at good finishes as well. Track ended with a 5-2-1 record with top runners Larry Johnson, Aaron King, Rich Dagenais and Steve Daykin. The co-ed tennis team, with top players Chris York, a junior has a 7-1 record as of May 15. Coach is Peter Back. Junior varsity softball (coach Ed Geary) stands at 11-1 and junior varsity baseball (coach Jim DeLuca) is at 9-2.

Other Shawsheen Tech sports highlights:

Two league MVPs, Nicole Stanasek in basketball and Shannon Richardson in volleyball.

Cross country has now been undefeated for three years

The Wrestling team took the State Vocational Championship title.

Boys tennis team ends season

by JAMIE POTE

The Wilmington High School boys tennis team needed just one more victory and they would have went to the state tournament for the second season in a row. However, even with their 6-8 overall record, the team still had a fun and satisfying season.

"We opened with a win and we ended with a win," said head coach Mike Tammaro. "Our last match was against Hamilton-Wenham and they made it to the states. Actually, we knocked them out of the states last year and this year they knocked us out. It wasn't a bad year for us, it was certainly enjoyable. We won the Cape Ann League Team Sportsmanship Award and that means a lot to me and it shows just how great these kids really are."

Against H/W, Tom Perreault and Keith McLaren both won their matches as the former did so at 6-2 and 7-5, while the latter did it in three sets at 0-6, 6-2, 6-4. Mike Garbati lost his match 0-6, 1-6, but the tandem of Mike Gargan and Marc Merriman regrouped with set wins of 7-5 and 7-5. Jeff Hackett and Hung Nyugen lost 6-7 (with a 3-7 tiebreaker), 6-1 and 5-7.

These Renegades are all women

By PAUL FEELY

Women's sports have come a long way, baby.

There is no denying that for many years women involved in athletics were considered more of a curiosity than an athlete, but all that has changed. Two women's professional basketball leagues have been created, ushering in the era of female professional athletes in major sports other than tennis and golf.

A women's amateur soccer league, the W-League, has also been created. The local entry, the Boston Renegades, will hold its season home opener on June 7 at Bowditch Field in Framingham against the Long Island Lady Raiders, and when the team takes the field for the first time that evening Wakefield's Marybeth Callahan will be in uniform.

"It's very exciting," said Callahan. "There's a lot of interest in the team right now. We're expecting at least 1,000 people at the opener."

Callahan's name should be familiar to anyone who has followed the local sports scene over the past decade or so. The 26-year-old Wakefield High standout played on a Lady Warrior soccer squad that went undefeated and unscored upon during the 1988-89 school year, as well as going unranked by major newspaper sports staff members. The team eventually lost to Acton-Boxborough 1-0 in the state tourney.

Callahan also played on the Wakefield girls basketball team which won the state title in 1988 under coach Bernie Plansky, and went on to play soccer at UMass-Dartmouth. There she was a member of the 1992 women's soccer team that posted a 17-3-2 record and came within one goal of winning the Division III National Championship (she and her teammates from that season were inducted into the UMass-Dartmouth Athletic Hall of Fame last year). She is currently an assistant coach at her collegiate alma mater.

Callahan originally started playing for the women's version of the Boston Storm men's soccer team four years ago, which was coached by current Winchester girls coach Chris Scanlon. She then played for the Cape Cod Crusaders, and last year played for the Renegades in 10 exhibition games in a trial run. The team has now been accepted into the W-League, and has posted a 2-0 record thus far, beating the New York Magic 3-2 and the Philadelphia Frenzy 2-0.

Callahan says that now that the team has a home field, it will be much easier to attract fans to the games.

"Last year it was hard to get people to follow us, because we played all over," said Callahan. "We (the players) didn't even know where the games were going to be week to week until a few days before we played, and it was tough to tell people where to go to watch us. But now that we are playing at Bowditch, it will be much easier to advertise the games and get people involved."

The team, which is coached by Natick girls soccer coach Rick Copland and organized by General Manager Nancy Smith, is working hard to get local youth

Boston Renegades to S-4

WAKEFIELD'S MARYBETH CALLAHAN is a member of the Boston Renegades, a women's amateur soccer team that has joined the W-League this season. The team plays its home games at Bowditch Stadium in Framingham.

WOBURN'S FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH on the Common is the first in a series by Middlesex East photographer Frank Gazarian capturing some of the more spectacular church steeples in this area. This particular church was built in 1860 and was the sixth built by that congregation, the first being built in 1642. The spire reaches 196 feet into the skyline and is truly spectacular to see. It also has the largest sanctuary (150 feet by 96 feet) in the entire world without interior supports. A declining congregation in recent years has found the membership turning to outsiders to assist in financing the very expensive ongoing maintenance of the church.

About The Towns

Helping hundreds!

Smelling the roses

"Louise Fay, who recently retired after 18 years running the meal-site program for the Council on Aging, reflected on the importance of such programs for senior citizens and the enjoyment she received from her years of community service," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"'After 18 years out of the house, I figured I had to stop and smell the roses,' Fay said.

"The Council serves the elderly of the community by hosting dances, aerobic activities, yoga and beano.

"Fay, a Melrose resident, who is also a senior citizen, had been asked to entertain a blind woman who had no family or close friends, she said.

"Fay said she brought the woman to her friends' and relatives' houses and spent Thanksgiving with her.

"Finally, Fay said, she ran out of ways to keep her occupied.

"It was then that she heard of the Council's facility at the Lincoln School and began taking regular trips to the functions.

"'I took her up there one day,' Fay said, 'and a young lady told me that she was leaving and asked me if I wanted the job.'

"'No,' I said. 'I couldn't do that. And that was how it started.'

"Fay took on the job, of course, and went on to help hundreds of the town's elderly."

Honorable volunteers

"Five Reading women were recently honored for acting as volunteer case reviewers for the Department of Social Services," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Paula Perry, Janice Hourihan, Patricia Weber, Susan R. Block and Patricia A. Powley were thanked for their 'dedication and commitment to some of the Commonwealth's most vulnerable children' at a reception at the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston.

"'Volunteer case reviewers play an integral role in the lives of children who have suffered from abuse and neglect. These volunteers offer a fresh, community perspective during some very tough decision-making review sessions. They are truly a clear and loud voice for kids who really need one,' said DSS Commissioner Linda K. Carlisle.

"As volunteer case reviewers, these five Reading residents are matched with children who live in the same community and have similar ethnic backgrounds.

"The women review the service plans and goals of children in foster care and participate in a foster care review panel every six months.

"There are 14,000 Massachusetts kids in foster care. This number has almost doubled from the 1980s' statistics.

"According to DSS, the reason for the growth in the number of foster children stems from social problems like abuse, neglect, substance abuse,

Fly Fishing Derby on Merrimack River

The Greater Lowell Fly Fishers two day benefit fishing derby will be held June 7th & 8th.

The Derby starts at 7 am Saturday and ends at 3 pm Sunday June 8th. Any participant may fish during any or all of the 32 hours of the Derby.

The place is the Merrimack River from the NH border to Duck Island in Lowell. The headquarters will be at Bellegrade Boathouse on Pawtucket Blvd in Lowell, next to the Rourke Bridge.

The Boathouse is about 1 mile upstream from the Pawtucket Falls and is across the street from Old Spear House Restaurant.

The entry fee is $15 per person regardless of age. The entry fee allows a participant to fish the entire Derby and that participant may win a prize in each of the three categories.

There are three fish categories, Largemouth Bass, Smallmouth Bass and Carp. A participant may win only one prize in each category.

Weigh-ins are at the Boathouse Headquarters and will be open during the entire Derby. All fish must be weighed in live. Dead fish will not be accepted, length will be used as a tie breaker.

Weigh-ins will close at 3:05 pm June 8th after the last person in line is checked in.

You do not need a Mass Fishing License to fish in this Derby. It is free fishing weekend in Mass during the Derby.

For information call Lenny Mills 508-251-4530 or Mike Galante 508-459-9109.

Persons may register at the Headquarters starting at 5 pm on June 6th. Greater Lowell Fly Fisher officials will be there until Midnight and will be there at 5:30 am on June 7th.

Proceeds from this Derby will benefit the Lindsey Dias Lung Transplant Fund.

Boston Renegades

From S-1

programs involved with the games, to promote the sport.

"We've invited some girls teams to the practice sessions, and they really love it," said Callahan. "They're chasing after balls and really enjoy it. We also do a lot of work with clinics, and just ask that people come out and support us."

Though players like Callahan now have a chance to compete on a national stage, that hasn't always been the case. Only a few years ago female soccer players could rise through the high school and college ranks, but then had no place to go after the last collegiate competition.

The W-League changed that. Started as a pilot program in 1994, the league completed its third season in 1996, when it had 24 teams across the United States from California to Rhode Island. There are now 32 teams involved.

Although the league is amateur in status, it is currently the highest level of competitive soccer for women in the United States (there are currently no professional leagues, but rumors of one starting up this fall on a trial run abound). Over the last few years the popularity of women's soccer has soared, fueled by the gold medal captured by the women's national team in the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

"The W-League is an important facet of the USISL system," said United Systems of Independent Soccer Leagues, Inc., president Francisco Marcos, with whom the W-League is affiliated. "The US has the best players in the world and we are providing them with the place to play as adults. Some day, probably sooner than later, the W-League will be a household name in sports."

The Renegades play in the Northeast Division, which includes teams from New York, Rhode Island, Buffalo, Connecticut, Long Island, and Rochester.

"Our goal is to win the division," said Callahan, who will be playing up front as a forward and midfielder this year. "We have a lot of depth, and we're already off to a good start. We think we have a good chance at it."

Because the league is currently still at the amateur level, most players on the team have to hold down a full-time job in addition to attending practice sessions and playing in games. The result is a hectic schedule for everyone involved, but one that players don't mind putting up with.

"The trips can be a lot of fun," said Callahan, who works during the day at The Registry, Inc., a software consulting company in Newton. "We train two nights a week, and then play games on the weekends, so it is time consuming, but a real sense of camaraderie develops. There are two girls that I've only known the past four years through my involvement with the team, and I'll be in their weddings soon. Those are the types of friends you make."

The Renegades home schedule is as follows:

- Saturday, June 7 - Long Island 7:30 pm
- Saturday, June 21 - Buffalo 7:30 pm
- Saturday, June 28 - Philadelphia 7:30 pm
- Sunday, June 29 - Rochester 2 pm
- Saturday, July 5 - Connecticut 7:30 pm
- Sunday, July 13 - New York 2 pm
- Thursday, July 17 - Rhode Island 7:30 pm

Ticket prices are $7 for adults and $5 for children. For information about purchasing season tickets call 1-800-794-5334.

The University of Massachusetts at Lowell recently held its annual Excellence Banquet, and a number of local student athletes were honored.

Burlington's Liam Govostes was a co-winner of the Lester B. Cushing Award, which is presented to the school's outstanding male athlete. Running as a junior on the men's track team, Govostes earned three All-America honors and now holds seven New England outdoor and indoor titles. He is currently the top 400 meter hurdler in Division 2 in the East, and holds three individual records at UMass-Lowell.

Tewksbury's Elyce Botto was the winner of the NCAA Woman of the Year Award. The award recognizes athletic excellence, academic achievement, leadership and community service. Botto ran as a member of the 4 x 200 and 4 x 400 hurdle relay teams, which set a school record. She is also a member of the dean's list and volunteers at a clinic for battered women near the school.

Govostes also received his All-America ring at the ceremony, along with North Reading's Chris Conroy, who competes on the wrestling team at the school.

38 canoe trips scheduled for Merrimack

For the eleventh season, the Merrimack River Watershed Council is offering 38 free canoe and kayak rips on nearby Massachusetts and New Hampshire rivers.

Scheduled from April to November, "these canoe trips are designed to let people discover the beauty and history of our local rivers," said Ralph Goodno, president of the Merrimack River Watershed Council. "This year we've planned trips on many of the large rivers and smaller streams throughout the region. Each trip will be unique. The difficulty has been rated from "easy" for novice paddlers, to "moderate," and then "difficult" for more skilled paddlers.

No registration is required, and all trips are free. For a complete schedule, or more information on any trip, call the Merrimack River Watershed Council at 508-681-5777, or write to the MRWC, 56 Island Street, PO Box 1377, Lawrence, MA 01842.

"DSS, along with the volunteers, are charged with the task of finding homes for children and preparing them for the future. DSS must ensure that each child have future goals, such as returning home, becoming adopted or living independently for older children.

"Volunteer case reviewers play an integral role in this process, participating in over 1,200 case reviews each month around the Commonwealth, DSS said."

HORSLEY EYE CLINIC
Boston Regional Medical Center, 3 Woodland Road, Stoneham

The Summit Technology S/S Apex laser is approved to perform Photo-Refractive Keratectomy (PRK) for the correction of mild to moderate myopia (1.5 to 7.0 diopters) in eyes with ≤ 1.5 diopters of astigmatism. Summit Technology's approval is based on clinical trials of more than 1600 eyes treated with safety information through 3 years of follow up. Alternatives to PRK are contact lenses, eyeglasses and radial keratotomy. Studies using a 6 mm treatment zone in 341 eyes have found that at 6 months after treatment, uncorrected vision was 20/40 or better in 95% of eyes and 20/20 or better in 66% of eyes. In 7% of eyes, best corrected vision with eyeglasses declined more than one line with none worse than 20/40. Transient implications up to several weeks included pain (24-48 hours), corneal swelling, double vision, feeling something is in the eye, shadow images, light sensitivity, tearing and pupil enlargement. The following adverse effects occured in at least 1% of eyes within 6 months of treatment: night vision difficulty (1%), elevation of intraocular pressure (2%), hazy cornea affecting vision (2%), overcorrection or became farsighted (9%), undercorrection or still nearsighted (6%), mild halo (10%), minor glare (10%). Long term risks of PRK, beyond three years have not been studied. This laser is not indicated to correct high myopia (nearsightness > 7.0D), astigmatism, or farsightedness.

High tech approach to pain relief

Irene Cawley, a 60 year old woman with severe pain in the abdomen, came to Dr. Kumar at the Advanced Pain Management Center. In 1989, Irene was found to have Rectal Cancer. Extensive surgery was followed by a course of radiation treatment. Although the cancer was controlled her pain was completely out of control. She described bouts of abdominal pain as "Knife twisting on my insides."

Many times the Pain would wake her up in the middle of the night and she would double over in pain. In 1991, Irene landed in the hospital requiring surgery for obstruction and numbness adhesions of the bowel. Despite the surgery and narcotics, Irene continued to have uncontrolled pain that affected the very quality of her existence. Her doctors did a "million dollar work-up" that included MRI, CAT, SCAN, GI series, IVP found no abnormality. Ultimately, her surgeon told her "There is nothing more I can do for you."

Then Dr. Kumar first saw Ms. Cawley, she was on narcotics but the pain relief was not adequate. Due to persistent pain and nausea she was not able to eat well and barely weighed 100 lbs. Her quality of life had deteriorated so much that she depended on her daughter and friends for routine activities of living.

Due to persistent intractable pain not responding to conventional means, Dr. Kumar proposed a trial of "Morphine pump." Irene, although skeptical, agreed to the trial. She had a tiny catheter (a thin plastic tube) placed in her back, connected to a pump that she could carry in a hand bag. The pump had a reservoir filled with Morphine. Minute amount of Morphine was delivered near the spinal cord, by the catheter connected to the pump.

For the duration of trial that lasted three days, Ms. Cawley was almost pain free. Dr. Kumar explained to Ms. Cawley how she could have a permanent "Morphine Pump." Ms. Cawley was thrilled with a taste of life without pain and easily agreed.

By a surgery lasting two hours, Dr. Kumar implanted the pump filled with Morphine. Before Ms. Cawley was awake, the pump had been programmed to deliver Morphine at a reset rate with the help of a Laptop computer by telmetry without ever touching the pump. When Irene woke up from general anesthesia in the recovery room, although sore from surgery, she could at last feel her pain melt away. Ms. Cawley went home the next day knowing that the pump will be filled once in one to two months.

A few weeks after surgery, Ms. Cawley was beaming with joy of no pain. No longer did she need to depend on her daughter and friends. Ms. Cawley had regained control of her life with this "high-tech pain relief."

Dr. Kumar says that this high tech approach can be used for chronic cancer or non-cancer pain not responding to conventional means or when there are troublesome side effects from narcotics. The same high-tech pump can also be used for severe spasticity of spinal cord injury, multiple sclerosis and cerebral palsy.

Brain disorders caused by immune system

Some rare brain disorders may be caused by "friendly fire"- the body's attempt to defend itself against invading bacteria and virus researchers say.

Scientists once considered the brain to be an immunologically privileged area, that is, not susceptible to the constant war under way between the body's immune system and germs.

But recent studies have shown that the immune system can confuse normal cells in the brain and the central nervous system with the enemy invaders. When the immune system makes a mistake and attacks these cells, patients can develop bizarre and debilitating neurological disorders, researchers said at the national meeting of the Society for Neuroscience.

Even cancer can cause the body to attack its own nervous system, they said.

Early Detection is Critical...

to apprehend autism or pervasive developmental disorders among otherwise healthy children. Undetected they rob a child of the right to a meaningful life.

Parents should be alerted to the following clues in the behavior of their small children:

- Preoccupation with objects
- Scattered, unfocused behavior
- Insistence on sameness (frequent tantrums)
- Poor eye contact and unresponsiveness to people
- Delayed, unusual or lost language
- Arm flapping, repetitive rocking
- Unusual response to sound, touch
- Persistent toe-walking

If you find some of these signs in your child, call Dr. Arnold Miller at the Language and Cognitive Development Center (LDC/Boston), 617-522-5434 for a consultation.

Watershed information is now on-line locally

The Merrimack River Watershed is now on-line with its own site on the World Wide Web. The site was developed by the Merrimack River Watershed Council (MRWC), which also maintains it.

The MRWC is a non-profit environmental group based in Lawrence and Concord, NH. The Council works to protect and restore the Merrimack River and its watershed to the benefit of communities and ecosystems alike.

The Web Page features information on canoe trips, water quality throughout the Merrimack, volunteer environmental monitoring training and how to get involved, maps, and a range of environmental reports,. Anyone interested in exploring the MRWC Web Page can type in the following address on their web browser: http://www.merrimack.org.

Development of the web site was funded by the Merrimack River Initiative (MRI). The MRI is a coalition of federal, regional and state agencies, governments, local businesses, recreational interests and environmental groups. It has developed a strategic management plan for the watershed, and produced numerous tools to aid in implementing that plan. The MRI is administered by the New England Interstate Water Pollution Control Commission (NEIWPCC), and funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The Council welcomes public feedback on their new web site, and hopes to add more useful information and graphics over the next year. Anyone with suggestions on how to improve the site should call the Council at 508-681-5777.

May is National and Mass. Museum-Goers Month

May has been designated "National Museum-Goers'' Month," and with more than 170 art, history and sporting museums, the Bay State offers residents and visitors a dizzying selection of options. If you're looking for a bit of cultural enrichment, entertainment or a great (and inexpensive) date idea, read on for the latest new exhibits that should not be missed:

Beginning May 31, the Kennedy Library will open a new, expanded permanent exhibit entitled "Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy" First Lady" and a temporary exhibit, "Jacqueline Bouvier - John Kennedy Wedding," to be on display through Labor Day. The wedding exhibit will feature Mrs. Kennedy's recently restored gown as well as the engagement ring and home movies of the occasion. The "First Lady" exhibit will profile Mrs. Kennedy's contribution to the nation during the Kennedy Presidency, particularly in the restoration of the White House and her work in the arts and as a traveling ambassador. For more information, contact 617-929-4523.

The Concord Museum unveiled a new permanent historical exhibit this month entitled "Why Concord?-the Concord History Galleries." The six-gallery exhibit examines the people and events that shaped this influential and historical community. The exhibit includes audio presentations, creative hands-on activities and rare photographs. For more information, contact the museum at 508-369-9763.

Visitors to Plimouth Plantation, a living museum that re-creates the Pilgrim's first village, will step back in time to 1627. Now celebrating its 50th anniversary, the popular attraction has recently opened a new exhibit at its ship, the Mayflower II, which is a reproduction of the ship that originally crossed the Atlantic. The new program includes exhibits on pre-European contact, an explanation why the Pilgrims left Europe, a hands on exhibit on 17th century navigation and a special exhibit for children. In addition, the 40-year old ship will be undergoing some reconstruction, and visitors can talk with artisans about shipbuilding techniques as repairs are being made. For more information on the Mayflower II, contact 508-746-1622.

There are hundreds of temporary and permanent exhibitions for residents or visitors to enjoy during Museum Goer's Month and beyond. For a spring/summer calendar of events, call 1-800-227-MASS. For a free Massachusetts Getaway Guide, call 1-800-447-MASS.

School Notes
by Phyllis Nissen

Not just another 'Bright Star'

Abigail Adams visits

"An innovative education tool for teachers made its Wilmington debut when fifth graders of the Woburn, Shawsheen, and Wildwood Elementary schools were the first area students to take part in a program conducted by the Bright Star Learning Co-operative," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The non-profit, Chicago-based corporation visits schools throughout the nation with a three part workshop. The Wilmington performance surrounded the tale of 'The Revolutionary Abigail Adams.'

"The first part of the program was the consultation of all the Wilmington fifth grade teachers at Textron Systems, at 201 Lowell Street. This inservice was conducted...for three hours, by Bright Star consultants, Rebecca Bloomfield, and Robin Bennett.

"The second component of the program involved the theater performance of 'The Revolutionary Abigail Adams' in each of the schools. The final component involved the combination of teachers and consultants, working with students in the classroom, in an effort to connect the performance to classroom learning.

"According to the Curriculum Coordinator of the Wilmington Public Schools, Lore Nielson, the event was well received by both the students and teachers. The performance went along with the students' curriculum, and was a change of pace from the usual classroom lecture.

"The program was co-sponsored by Textron Systems, along with the three Elementary schools and the Wilmington school system. The School-Business Partnership, Winchester Hospital, Wilmington-Tewksbury Elks, Rotary Club, and C.J. McCarthy Insurance Agency and Financial Services were also contributors to the program costs."

Board endorses technology plan

The Burlington School Committee recently voted unanimously to approve the technology plan which is estimated to cost $5.4 million over five years.

"At a previous meeting, Robert Milley of the Center for Educational Leadership and Technology, told the School Committee that the town had 'fallen behind comparable districts' and needed to 'get back into the major leagues again' with regard to technology," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

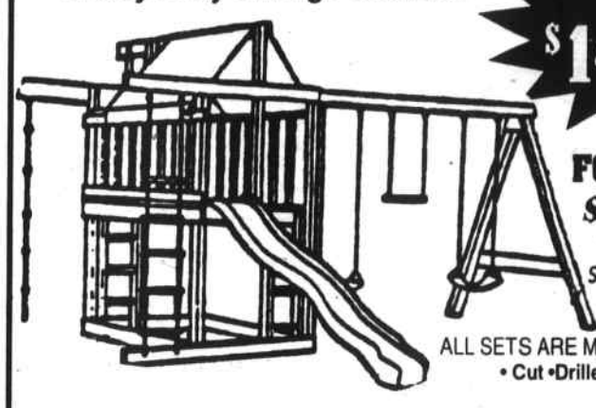

"The Technology Committee spent 18 months outlining and developing its plan.

"'It is very comprehensive, and it would be a reasonable step for us to take (approval) at this point,' said School Committeeman Thomas F. Murphy, Jr. 'We should take the first step.'

"But financing the plan remains a concern of the School Committee...Funding strategies presented by the committee include a bond or overrides, an item within the annual budget, business partnerships, state and federal grants, donations, partnerships with higher education and lease purchase....

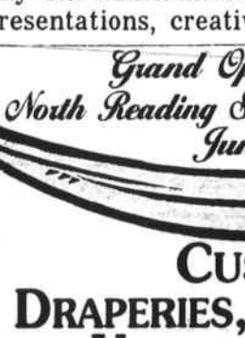

"'I can't imagine myself asking Town Meeting for $1 million in May,' said School Committee chair Christine Monaco. 'I can't support this staggering amount of money. We just have too many requests.'"

ANTHONY MANCONI

When I was fourteen my mother decided that I was going to be another Jascha Heifetz the great violinist. Every Wednesday afternoon I'd "LUG" my violin to Mr. Ferragamo's Music Studio. After six months sound coming out of my playing the violin sounded like a chain saw hitting a knot in the trunk of a tree.

Finally, Mr. Ferragamo came to my house and told my mother, 'Save your money and take W.C. Field's advice, "If at first you don't succeed, TRY-TRY-Again, then for crying out loud QUIT! There's no sense being a darn FOOL about it!"

President Calvin Coolidge was a man of very few words. His short statement for a second term was, "I do NOT choose to run." He retired to his farm in Vermont and later when word was Flashed to the White House that he had died, a news reporter asked, "How can they tell?"

Stan Black President of "Trend Lines" said to me, "Chipper, I never believed in Reincarnation until yesterday. I noticed when the, "Stop-Work" whistle blew, some of my employees, MIRACULOUSLY came back to LIFE!"

Jimmy Corbett grew up in a family with six brothers. Jimmy learned to dance waiting his turn standing stand in line to go to the bathroom.

Dicky Hayes works for Mass Electric. He is also a part-time bartender helping to keep the town, "Half-lit."

Johnny Ave. got up and gave his seat on a crowded Blue Line Train to a woman and she fainted. When she came too, she thanked Johnny and he fainted.

Those who say that American Workers are lazy have NOT seen the rubbish collectors (Sanitary Engineers) at work. These young men move with the agility of adagio dancers and they all have the strength of a Charles Atlas. God Bless them. Here are a few who I see every Tuesday morning, Paul Lacazillade, Bobby Grimes, Bruce "Juice" Anderson, Bob Tuttle, Ed Nolan, Mark Hutchinson, Jimmy LaGrassa and Don Orio.

Folks, I'm sure they have counterparts in your city and town. American Workers are lazy? "Bah Hum BUG!!!"

My late mother loved flowers but my father's rule was, 'If you can't eat them-don't plant them!" So-she planted, "CAULIFLOWER'S." I hated garden work, so every time my father caught me siting down he'd shout, "you're supposed to get callouses on YOUR HANDS!"

Folks, my dear late mother loved to listen to Edwin McCue's radio program. He's start each day signing, "If I have wounded any soul today, if I have caused one foot to go astray, if I have walked my own willful way, Dear Lord, Forgive."

Christine Larsen said, "Make everyone feel, there's something "GOOD" in him or her. Promise to be just as enthusiastic about the success of others, as YOU are of YOUR own."

I'll bet that many people hate to be asked, "How old are you?" Well my Aunt Nora has a stock answer for those who inquire. She looks them straight in the eyes and says, "I'm as old as my nose and, twice as old as my teeth. And it's none of your Bee's Wax."

My friend Blackie Vega is slowing down. It takes him two hours to Watch 60 Minutes."

Shoe sales person's Rule NO. ONE. Never tell a woman "One foot is larger than the other." tell her, 'One foot is SMALLER than the other.

I asked Johnny Ave., 'How old is that dog Johnny?" "I don't know," he relied, "I got it when it was five years old."

Folks, who needs Yogi Berra with Johnny Ave and Blackie Vega in the area?

Tony Stack from Dublin Ireland told me that they don't hang a man with a long moustache in Ireland- "They use a ROPE!"

I remember when my Uncle John Shea and Rowan Fitzgerald went to Charlestown to pay their respects for Tom Maguire who had passed away. He was a fellow worker on the piers and docks of Charlestown and South Boston. First they had a few drinks in the Big Potato to steady their nerves.

They then walked up the stairs in a three decker, walked into the parlor and knelt down at the piano. Rowan said, "John, I didn't know Tom had a wonderful set of teeth?" "I can see that," John Shea replied, "BUT there's a bad one here and there."

The lady of the house shooed them out and they went up to the third floor, knelt down then John said to the widow, "he's still warm," "Well," she replied, "Hot or Cold he goes out at 9 in the morning!"

Rowan left twenty dollars to defray the costs and Uncle John wrote a check for One Hundred Dollars. Later Rowan said, "That was mighty generous John BUT, I noticed that you didn't sign the check?" "That's right," John Shea replied, I make all my contributions ANONYMOUSLY."

Spirit of Massachusetts

Children's adventure at sea

Parents can enroll youngsters in an adventurous experience for a six day period as a member of the working crew of the 125 foot, 100 ton sailing vessel, the Spirit of Massachusetts.

This memorable experience for youngsters will be conducted for periods of six days and five nights aboard the vessel which is modeled after the Gloucester fishing craft Fredonia, designed by Edward Burgess in 1889. The Spirit, built in 1984, is operated by The New England Historic Seaport, Inc., a non-profit organization dedicated to nautical education and is a subsidiary of the Schools for Children in Arlington.

The Spirit, certified by the United States Coast Guard as a Sailing School Vessel, is a member of the American Sail Training Association and provides a variety of educational nautical experiences for youths, most of whom have had no prior sailing experience.

The educational program is geared for middle school students and gives the youngsters an exciting, unforgettable nautical sailing experience aboard a typical coastal schooner of the 1890's. During the trip, the youngsters become integral members of the ship's crew, plotting courses, standing watches, tying knots, trimming sails, doing maintenance and participating in safety drills. The learn the value of team work as a member of the crew and acquire a sense of individual accomplishment that comes from completing challenging tasks.

Parents can obtain further information about enrolling youngsters for weeks in June or July by contacting: The New England Historic Seaport, 197 Eights St., Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston 02129 or phone (617) 242-1414.

Stately brick home with great pizzazz

The Noranda is a large and stately brick home. Corner quoins reinforce the image of permanence while the arched stepped-brick entryway and the herringbone-patterned chimney inset adds eye-catching pizzazz.

A variety of group living environments dominate the ground floor, with the great room being the largest. Windowed front and back, it has a hardwood floor, a lofty 12-foot ceiling, and a large fireplace. Double doors open onto a partially covered patio.

Kitchen and dining room flow together, separated by a wall section and an eating bar. The dining room is large, and the vaulted ceiling makes it feel even larger. This room, too, has a fireplace and double-door access to the patio.

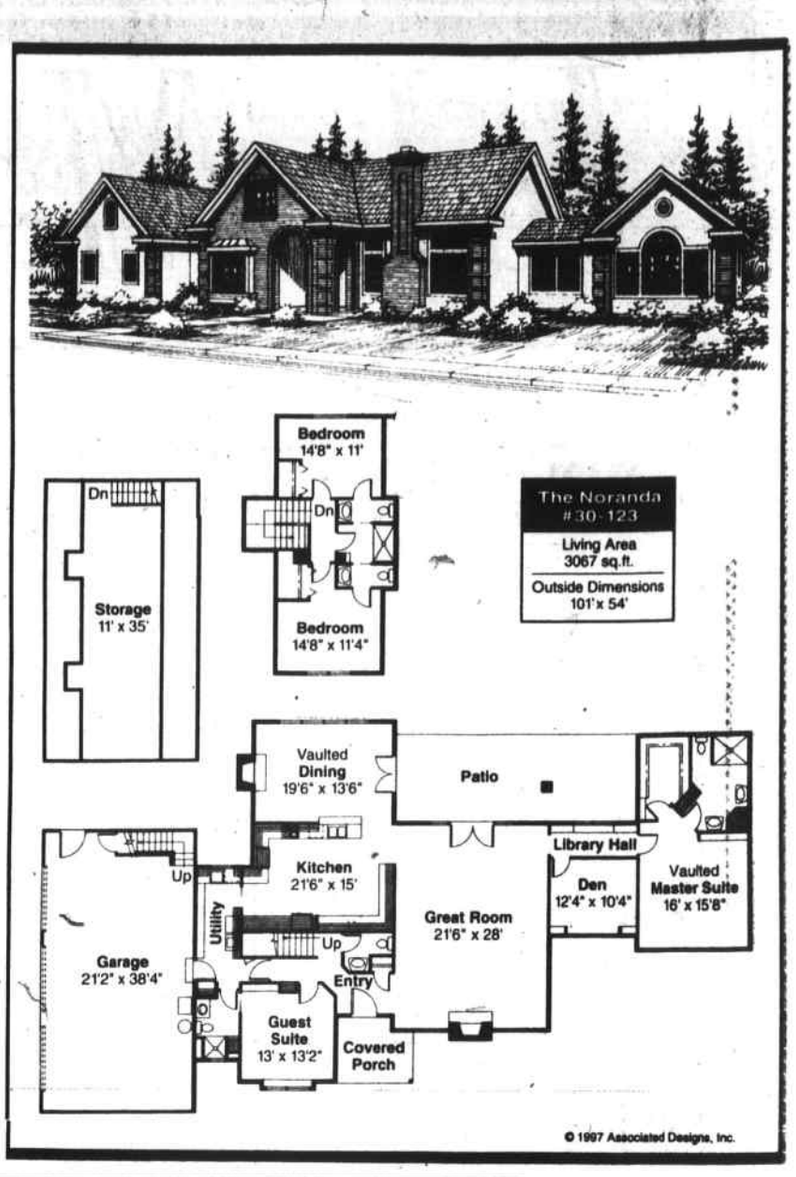

Tile covers the floor of a kitchen large enough for a team of cooks to work together. Laundry appliances are just around the corner, in a long passageway that connects the kitchen to the three-car garage. The full bathroom at the end of this hallway is handy for garage access. It's also convenient to a guest suite that could just as easily be outfitted as a play room.

Den, library hall and master suite nestle together in the quiet wing to the right of the great room. Shelving lines the library hall. Luxury amenities in the vaulted master suite include a huge walk-in closet and a plush private bathroom.

Two large bedrooms are upstairs in the Noranda, where they share a centrally located shower. Each bedroom has its own private toilet and lav. A separate second floor accessible only from the garage provides ample storage.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Noranda 30-123 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12.

Your Home: Q&A

What is the proper way to fix a balustrade?

Q: We recently bought an old house and, as you can imagine, it offers a "lifetime" of fix-up projects. One such project that we'd like your advice on concerns the right way to fix a loose balustrade.

A: When the whole balustrade, including the handrail and newel post, feels loose, it indicates a breakdown of the joints between the steps and the outer stringer. You should attend to it immediately, before the whole structure becomes dangerous and liable to collapse completely if someone were to fall against it.

Refasten to the steps a loose stringer and newel by first removing the wedges from the tread and riser mortises and then, working along the face of the stringer with a hammer and wood block, knocking it back into place to reseat the joints. If the stringer tends to spring away, hold it in place with lengths of timber braced between it and the opposite wall. Make new wedges, apply glue to the joints and drive the wedges in to make tight joints.

Reinforce the joint between the bottom step and the newel post with glued blocks rubbed into the angle on the underside of the stair. Alternatively, screw metal angle plates into the corners.

Q: I would like to grow climbing ivy on the brick walls of my house, but I've heard that the plant could damage the wall. Is this true?

A: There is a widely held misconception that a climbing ivy will damage any masonry wall. If stucco or the mortar between bricks or stonework is in a poor condition, then an exuberant ivy plant will undoubtedly weaken the structure as its aerial roots attempt to extract moisture from the masonry. The roots invade broken joints or cracks and on finding a source of nourishment for the main plant, they expand and burst the weak material, which accelerates deterioration by encouraging moisture penetration. If the ivy is allowed to grow unchecked, the weight of the plant can eventually topple a weakened wall.

However, with modern hard bricks and mortar, ivy can do no more than climb by the aid of training wires and its own suckerlike roots. So long as the structure is sound and moistureproof, there is some benefit from ivy clothing a wall in that its close-growing mat of leaves, mostly with their drip tips pointing downward, acts as insulation and a watershed against the elements. Where ivy is permitted to flourish as a climber, it must be hand-pruned to prevent it from penetrating between roofing joints and vents and clogging gutters and downspouts.

Q: Dark brown spots are appearing in areas of my concrete deck. They don't wash away with soap and water. What causes these spots?

A: The type of discoloration you describe occurs when tricalcium alumino-ferride — the agent that gives portland cement its gray color — has not reacted thoroughly with the other chemicals in concrete. To remove the dark spots, try pouring on undiluted household vinegar. If that doesn't work, try a solution of 1 part muratic acid to 30 parts water.

Use your garage wisely

For most people, the garage is an extension of the house. Here are some tips to make it easier to use: Weatherstripping

To keep out cold air, rodents and debris, install vinyl weatherstripping designed specifically for closing gaps around a garage door. You will save energy as well.

Before installing weatherstripping, sand the door bottom, wash it with a mild detergent and let it dry for two or three days. Then paint the area of the door.

Weatherstripping on the bottom of a garage door takes a lot of abuse. Replace it as needed.

If your garage floor is uneven, you can still create a good seal between the bottom of the door and the floor. Simply tack a three-fourths-inch foam pipe insulation to the bottom of the door with the slit facing down.

CAUTION: Remember that a well-sealed garage means an even greater danger of carbon monoxide buildup. Never run an engine inside a closed garage. Parking tips

Judging how far is enough when parking your car in the garage can be tricky.

Hang a tennis ball from the ceiling. Park your car exactly where you want it. Then mount a screw eye in the ceiling and position the hanging ball so that it touches the windshield on the driver's side.

If you have trouble centering the car in its space, stick reflective tape the width of your car on the back wall of the garage. You'll center it easily.

Keep lawn mowers, bicycles and other equipment out of the way by painting white lines on the garage floor, outlining a space for each item. As long as all family members return the items to their designated spots, you won't have to get out of the car to move them before you can park.
